Happy Spring...Nine Inches of Snow

TRAFFIC MOVES ON BROADWAY DESPITE KINGSTON'S LATE WINTER STORM

By LYNN MULVANEY
KINGSTON

Spring sprang a big surprise on residents of the Hudson Valley late Friday when a last-gasp-of-winter storm deposited nine inches of new snow bringing the season's total snowfall to 83 inches, within three inches of the all-time high of 86½ recorded in 1966-67.

According to the calendar, spring is due to arrive at 1:38 a.m. EST Sunday but a gloomy bulletin from National Weather Service said, "Spring will come eventually" but not for the next few days or so.

Meanwhile, the new snow brought with it a rash of motor vehicle accidents throughout the county although no serious personal injuries were reported by police agencies. It brought traffic tieups, power failures in the Ulster Landing-West Camp area, Cablevision outages in the City of Kingston and surrounding areas and it brought down trees and tree limbs in the city ... enough to keep a tree crew busy all night and into today.

Superintendent of Public Works, Charles Cole said the storm took his department by surprise because two weather advisories earlier yesterday predicted no more than three inches of snow followed by a "total washout." DPW crews were therefore prepared for salting but not for plowing. Nevertheless almost all streets of the city were cleared by this morning with the exception of a few hilly side streets which were expected to be cleaned up by 10 a.m. today. Cole added that he was short handed due to illness of several workers.

Weight of snow on tree branches caused a number of trees to fall, with one on Fair Street crushing a parked car belonging to District Attorney Francis J. Vogt and blocking traffic. Tree crews were kept busy hour on hour picking up broken limbs strewn in streets throughout the city.

One thousand Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company customers were affected by the power shortage which began at 3:45 a.m., power was restored 6:30 a.m. The area affected was bounded on the south by Ulster Landing and on the north by Saugerties, Maiden and Glasco. Cablevision users lost their television pictures from about midnight when electrical power failures in Port Ewen affected Cablevision's transmitting station.

The storm brought mixed reactions today. Photographers called it picture perfect, skiers and snowmobilers were delighted while still others wielded shovels, pouted about canceled plans and cursed out the wily month of March for her wintery tricks.

While the heaviest accumulation of snow was experienced in the Upper Hudson Valley all of Eastern New York was buried with up to one foot of the white stuff. The snow made driving hazardous on the Thruway from Westchester to Syracuse although the road remained open. One fatality north of Ithaca was blamed on wet roads.

The storm passed snowfall marks Friday at Syracuse and Albany, two areas already bothered by unusually severe winters.

By 9 p.m. the 2.1 inches at Syracuse set a record yearly total of 147.3 inches. The previous record was 146.8 inches.

Four inches of new snow fell at Albany in six hours, breaking the 100-inch total for the season, the second highest amount of record.

A half dozen flights were delayed or canceled at Albany County Airport although the facility remained technically open.

Heavy snow warnings were posted for northern Maine and New Hampshire.

Central and southern Wisconsin also began digging out of from as much as 16 inches of snow which fell Thursday.

At Madison, Wis., slugged by 14 inches of snow overnight, fans attending the state basketball tournament sought refuge from the storm in motel lobbies, gymnasiums and even the police station.

Policeman, Four Others Nabbed

By WALTER S. CLARK and
WADE BURKHART

KINGSTON
Four New York City area men, and a Woodstock resident were arrested late Friday to bring the total to 28 netted in the Ulster County drive against narcotics. One of the New York City men was a policeman.

The cop, Richard Monclova, 35, of Kew Gardens, was arrested by New York City police and turned over to state police. He was charged with criminal sale third degree, and possession fourth and sixth degree.

Also arrested were John Bosso, 29, Queens Village, criminal sale third degree and possession fourth and sixth degrees; Joel M. Katz, 28, of the Bronx, criminal sale third degree and possession fourth and sixth degrees; Michael Nugget, 29, Bayside, L.I., criminal sale third degree and possession fourth, fifth and sixth degrees; and Jerry Bruce Bonestell, 18, Woodstock, criminal sale third degree and possession fourth and sixth degrees.

They were all arrested on bench warrants issued in Ulster County.

Meanwhile, 15 of the 23 persons arrested during the early morning raids in the Kingston, Ellenville, New Paltz and Woodstock areas Friday, were later arraigned before Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino who set bail and fixed dates for hearings in court.

The 15 had been named in secret indictments reported to Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Conway on Wednesday.

Seven other persons, who had not been indicted but who were taken into custody on drugs charges as the result of the raids that had been mapped by Major R. M. Kisor, commanding officer of Troop F, and District Attorney Francis J. Vogt and their staffs, were scheduled to appear in justices court in communities where they were arrested.

Five defendants before Judge Mino charged with criminally selling a dangerous drug third degree, and criminal possession of dangerous drugs fourth and sixth degrees, two counts each and dates set for their hearings were:

Mickey Schurat, 19, Dogwood Drive, Nanpoch; Dave Nixon, 32, of 169 Center Street, Ellenville, and Carl Leschetsky, 22, of Tinker Street, Woodstock, hearings April 14; Denis Mondesire, 22, of 14 Church Street, Ellenville, and Hilbert Tunstall, 19, of 51 Center Street, Ellenville, March 24.

Schurat was released in custody of Attorney Herbert Weiss. Weiss was assigned as counsel for Nixon and bail was set at $2,500. Weiss was assigned as counsel for Leschetsky and bail was set at $2,500. Bail for Mondesire was fixed at $1,000 cash or $2,000 property bond. Frank Spada was assigned as attorney for Tunstall.

Carlos Cruz, of Ellenville, charged with criminal sale of a dangerous drug third degree, criminal possession of a dangerous drug fourth and sixth degrees, three counts each, was assigned Albert Lonstein as attorney. Nelson Cruz of Ellenville, charged with criminally selling a dangerous drug third degree, criminal possession of a dangerous drug fourth and sixth degrees, was assigned Attorney Ben Lonstein. Both men were in jail on previous charges involving drugs.

Shirley Partelow, 26, of Maple Avenue, Ellenville, charged with criminally selling a dangerous drug third degree, and criminal possession of a dangerous drug fourth and sixth degree, was released in her own custody and Attorney James Murray was assigned.

Wenceslao Lopez, 28, of Eaton Court, Ellenville, indicted for similar charges was held in bail of $1,000 cash or $2,000 property and his case was adjourned until March 24 for counsel.

Robert J. Tranchini, 23, Box 418, Turkey Hill, Kerhonkson, was released in custody of Attorney Herbert Weiss and hearing was adjourned until April 14. Tranchini was indicted for criminally selling a dangerous drug fourth degree and criminal possession of a dangerous drug fifth and sixth degrees.

Paul Kroncke, 20, of LeFevre Hall, New Paltz, was held in $500 bail and hearing was adjourned until March 24.

'Tactical Move' in Laos By S. Vietnamese Troops

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops shut down their major armored base in Laos today in what the Saigon government called a "tactical move." U.S. helicopter pilots who airlifted the South Vietnamese from a nearby outpost reported such intense anti-aircraft fire that 10 choppers barely were able to limp to their base.

The South Vietnamese command said government units moved out of Artillery Base A Loui 11 miles west of the South Vietnamese border and were "still Laos."

It was another indication of an apparent trend toward winding down the Laotian operation although there was no official word the six-week-old drive was in the process of being completed.

American helicopter crews today airlifted a battalion of weary government infantrymen from jungles near abandoned Combat Base Brown 2½ miles south of A Loui. They reported blistering ground fire on their way to Khe Sanh, the major U.S. base for American support of the Laos operation.

At least 10 of the UH1 Huey helicopters were shot up so badly they were rated "nonflyable" when they got back to Khe Sanh, field reports said.

Military spokesmen reported more than 700 Communists killed in fighting around A Loui Friday and today.

Military sources said 1,200 men and 100 tanks and armored personnel carriers were moved out of A Loui while 600 men were flown back to Khe Sanh.

North Vietnamese gunners hit Khe Sanh with rockets and artillery again today and for were on the stand shortly after the first time in the Laotian operation, also pounded the South Vietnamese headquarters at Ham Ngai near Khe Sanh. The U.S. command said 65 Soviet-made rockets and Chinese-made artillery shells hit the base at Khe Sanh Friday night and 30 more today.

Several Americans were wounded and a huge gasoline tank set on fire, military spokesmen said.

Armadas of U.S. helicopters use Khe Sanh, 12 miles from the Laotian border, as a major drop point in lifting battle-weary South Vietnamese troops out of the six-week-old Laotian campaign.

The U.S. helicopters have brought thousands of South Vietnamese out of Laos in the past few days and less than 15,000 Saigon troops were left bases north of Highway 9.

there down from 24,000 at the peak of the operation which began Feb. 8 in an effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the primary Communist supply line into South Vietnam and Cambodia.

South Vietnamese headquarters in Saigon acknowledged for the first time Friday that the reduction in troops inside Laos had left no South Vietnamese bases north of Highway 9.

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—Lt. William Calley's hard-working murder jury, plowing through testimony and evidence piled up in history's longest court-martial, deliberates for the fourth day today and plans to continue after church Sunday.

Since receiving the case Tuesday night, the jury has been putting in long days, starting at 8 p.m. taking an hour for lunch and quitting as late as 9 p.m. The jury worked for eight hours Friday, holding no night session.

From their security tight room has come a stream of requests: for pictures of My Lai where Calley is accused of murdering 102 people; for the testimony of witnesses who were on the stand shortly after the trial began four months ago; for a list of the five-score witnesses, a fan to cool their sun-filled chamber.

General claims he is being made "political scapegoat" by Congressman Stratton. Story on page 14.

The 27-year-old Calley comes to the courthouse, where he has been almost daily since the trial began Nov. 12, only when he is summoned. It's happened four times since the jury got the case twice for the testimony readings which must be done in open court.

The rest of the time Calley is at his bachelor apartment on the post, always primed to put on his uniform for the crucial day in his life: the reading of the verdict.

The jury has 13 verdicts to pick from, ranging from pre-existence.

meditated murder on each of four counts, through unprompted murder and manslaughter to acquittal. On one charge, the killing of a child, the jury has the additional option of finding him guilty of assault with intent to kill.

Friday the six officers on the jury listened to a reading of the testimony given by Christopher Garbow and Dean Lind, helicopter pilots in the parent unit of the company that stormed My Lai on March 16, 1968. Calley commanded a platoon in Charlie Company of the assault force.

The recollections of the pilots and that of four infantrymen—all requested by the jury—touched on the death scene at a crossing of two village trails.

Calley is charged with at least 30 murders at that intersection, but denied even knowing of its existence.

600 Persons Feared Dead in Peruvian Landslide

Rescue workers take a body out of a mining camp at Chungar, Peru, about 55 miles north of the capital city of Lima after the camp was destroyed by a landslide. Officials feared the death toll may exceed 600 of the 1,000 persons at the camp. A spokesman said the disaster occurred about 9 a.m. Thursday when the rains dumped a hillside into Lake Yanahuin about 190 miles north of the mine site, forcing lake waters out of their banks and burying the camp under tons of water. Rhinebeck Church Presents Cantata

RHINEBECK
The choir of the Dutch Reformed Church of Rhinebeck is currently preparing for the presentation of the well known cantata, "The Crucifixion," by Sir John Stainer, to be presented 8 p.m. March 28.

The cantata has been a standard of the Lenten Season musical presentations for many years and has always filled the need for a Lenten Musical Experience from the time of its first presentation until now.

The solos parts of the cantata are being sung by Rudolph Hoffman of Red Hook, as tenor and Robert B. Hinz of Hyde Park, who will sing the role of Christ.

Hoffman comes to the area from New York City where he sang in the All City Chorus, at Hunter College in a presentation of the Mikado as The Lord High Executioner, The New York State Protestant Choir as a soloist in St.

ROBERT B. HINZ

Patrick's Cathedral and as a Around the Corner. He studied soloist in the Little Church voice with Mr. Albert Barber formerly of the Metropolitan Opera. Hoffman is an Electro-Mechanical Technician with IBM.

Hinz formerly of Staten Island, is a Special Education Teacher at the North Park Elementary School and serves as a media consultant. He is well known for his many roles in the Hudson Valley Theater. He will soon appear again in the county Player's presentation of Man of La Mancha. Mr. Hinz was a chorister in St. Bartholomew's Church, New York and also sang in the Great Lakes Naval Station Choir.

John Young of Rhinebeck will sing the necessary incidental solos included in the cantata.

Members of choirs of the other churches of Rhinebeck are helping the choir of the Reformed Church with the cantata.

Raymond C. Corey, organist and choir-director is directing the performance.

Charities Appeal Kicks Off Sunday

KINGSTON
The 22 Catholic parishes in Ulster County will join with the other 412 parishes in the Archdiocese of New York to launch the 1971 Catholic Charities and Education Appeal beginning this Sunday, and continuing through Wednesday, March 31.

Immediate needs of the appeal total $10,850,380 to continue and expand the work of the 203 health and welfare agencies of Catholic Charities and to develop new services of the Office of Education, with special emphasis on Basic Adult Education, Education for the Mentally Retarded, upgrading of curriculum and innovative programs for the parochial school system, special services to the Catholic students on secular college campuses and the extension of Instructional Television.

Catholic Charities will concentrate on developing new areas for Dependent and Neglected Children, Emotional Illness, the Prevention of Drug Pollution, Aid to the Physically Handicapped, developing more Day Care Centers and increased services to the Lonely Aging.

Attends Paris Talks

PHOENICIA
Minister of the Phoenicia United Methodist Parish, the Rev. Bonnie L. Jones will discuss her observations at the Paris Peace talks at an informational meeting Wednesday at the church hall.

The program will start 7 p.m. A covered dish supper will be held 8:30 p.m.

The Rev. Miss Jones was a member of the Citizens Conference which went to Paris to discuss the possibilities for peace in Indo-China. There were 170 members in the delegation from 44 states. The group met with all parties to the peace talks as well as with international journalists, non-front resistance groups, Laotian students, Cambodians and other concerned people.

The focus of the conference from March 3 to 10 was to gain as much information first hand as possible and bring that in-

Mental Tests Are Order on Doctor's Slayer

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (UPI) — A psychiatric examination was ordered Friday for Russell J. Perrone, 65, of Greenville, charged with shooting to death his doctor.

City Court Judge Wilmet Decker adjourned a preliminary hearing for Perrone and ordered him returned to Orange County Jail pending the tests.

Perrone was charged with murder after Dr. Michael F. Camillo, 42, was shot down Monday at Horton Memorial Hospital here. Authorities have not revealed any motive in the case. Perrone, a widower and retired photographer, had been confined to the hospital at least three times in the past year for treatment of cancer, but was not there for treatment the day of the shooting. Camillo, married and the father of four children, was shot in the chest with a .38 caliber snub-nosed revolver.

Investigators Bypass State; Eye Racketeers at Albany Mall

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — A Mall project. He said he could not elaborate. Officially, state reaction to the announcement of the investigation was "No comment." A number of sources high in state government said, however, they did not expect the state to become deeply involved.

"Officially, we have heard nothing," one source, who asked not to be identified, said. "But what we have heard unofficially involves labor racketeering and gambling, no state involvement."

Meanwhile, there were these other developments in the South Mall situation: —Assemblyman Willis H. Stephens, R-Brewster, who heads both the Ways and Means Committee and a new "watchdog" committee on the mall, said his

Set Dewey Burial Today in Pawling

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hundreds of mourners, led by President and Mrs. Nixon, paid their last respects Friday to former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

"May he hear his Lord speak to him the words we all desire to hear—Well done, good and faithful servant, you have been faithful over a few things, now I will set you as master over many. Enter thou into the joy of the Lord," Dewey's pastor, The Rev. Dr. Ralph C. Lankler of the Church of Christ on Quaker Hill, Pawling, N.Y., eulogized.

Burial was scheduled today near Dewey's home in Pawling. He will be buried next to his wife, the former Frances Hutt, who died last year.

Dewey, 68, three times governor of New York and twice unsuccessful Republican presidential candidate, died Tuesday in Miami of a heart attack. He was preparing to fly to the White House for a visit with the President when he died.

Nixon flew to New York Friday, met his wife who was on a shopping trip and went to the St. James Episcopal Church on Madison Avenue.

The services lasted 25 minutes and ended with the 1,200 mourners singing "America the Beautiful."

About 200 spectators stood in the rain outside to watch the Nixons and other dignitaries enter. Also attending the services were Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Attorney General John N. Mitchell, former vice president Hubert Humphrey, Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Mayor and Mrs. John W. Lindsay, New York Sens. Jacob K. Javits and James L. Buckley, presidential advisor Henry Kissinger, broadcaster Lowell Thomas, who was Dewey's neighbor, and Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, who was trained in his job by Dewey.

City Youth Struck by Car

KINGSTON

A 16-year-old city youth sustained leg and ankle injuries Friday afternoon when struck by a car at the intersection of Van Buren and Prospect streets.

Harry Hungerford of 69½ Greenkill Avenue was taken to Kingston Hospital.

According to a report of Kingston City Police, the mishap occurred when a car operated by Donald R. Cole, 23, of 70 Van Buren Street entered the intersection and struck a car operated by Lillian I. Nelson, 51, of Rt. Box 226E in the left side. The Nelson car mounted the sidewalk and struck Hungerford.

Pt. Dominic Ausanio and Keith Schlechter investigated.

Phones Ringing Again At Mohawk Airlines

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — After a five-month silence, the telephones were ringing again today at the Mohawk Airlines flight reservation center here.

The Utica-based carrier, after agreeing to binding arbitration to end the lengthy pilots' strike, said it would begin taking reservations either late today or Sunday for flights beginning April 14.

The first day's flight schedule would be put into the computer today, a spokesman said, but the complete timetable might not be available until early next week.

The recall of 30 employees at the reservations center is made possible by Friday's agreement to put their dispute into arbitration after four more days of intensive negotiations in Washington.

If the key 11 of 13 remaining contract issues are not settled by next Thursday, the company and ALPA will begin two days of talks for a back-to-work agreement before turning over the contract dispute to arbitrator David L. Cole.

If all else fails, Cole will also be handed the back-to-work problem.

At any rate, a company spokesman said full service could be restored to the 87 cities Mohawk serves by mid-May.

The first day's flights will include about 12 jets, or one-third of Mohawk's post-strike operations. The company has already announced plans to cut its 451 daily flights by 20 per cent, in an economy move.

The spokesman said the total staff of 2,500 employees, furloughed since the Nov. 12 walk-out, will probably be reduced by a corresponding 20 per cent. "We won't know until they start returning," he said. "A lot of the reduction will probably be by attrition."

Ralph Collandier, Mohawk's vice president for flight operations, said only 355 of the current 396 pilots will be needed for the reduced flight schedule.

Meanwhile, there was speculation that Mohawk's agreement to arbitrate the dispute indicated the financially ailing company has completed its "financial restructuring" and will soon announce a new money source or a merger.

British Leaders Fly to Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British Defense Secretary Lord Carrington and Britain's top troop commander flew to Belfast today for talks with Premier James Chichester-Clark on stepped-up military measures to try to avert the collapse of his moderate government.

Prime Minister Edward Heath ordered Carrington and General Staff Chief Gen. Sir Geoffrey Baker to Belfast when the dispatch of an additional 1,300 British troops to Northern Ireland failed to strengthen Chichester-Clark's position against a mounting right-wing campaign to oust him from power.

A spokesman for the Department of Audit and Control said a full-time auditor has been assigned to the mall project with the specific assignment of checking shipments of materials. There have been reports that thousands of dollars of construction materials have disappeared from the mall site.

Published reports indicated Mayor Erastus Corning II of Albany was associated with insurance companies and banks involved with the mall project.

One plumbing company, which holds an $18 million mall contract, has done business for the past 20 years with the insurance company in which Corning is a partner.

The mayor also admitted he sits on the boards of directors of two banks which handle the $1 billion bond financing for the mall. He denied, however, that he played any role in obtaining the accounts for the banks, which are two of Albany's largest.

Protestant street crowds during the week clamored for his resignation. The Rev. Ian Paisley, a Protestant militant, called on his followers to demand an immediate election to sweep Chichester-Clark from office and replace him with a tougher premier.

A security force of 400 men erected a chain of roadblocks along the border separating Northern Ireland from the Irish Republic to the south, military spokesmen said.

Clark, who took over the premiership 22 months ago from his cousin, Terence O'Neill, faces almost certain defeat when the Ulster Unionist Council meets on March 29 to debate a no-confidence motion tabled by right-wing members.

The right-wing members want a leader that would be more strict with Ulster's Roman Catholic minority, which for the past two years has expressed with demonstrations and sometimes violence its complaints that the government is discriminating against Catholics in jobs, housing and voting.

Masons to Hear Sheriff Martin

KINGSTON All area Masons and friends are invited to attend both the service and the breakfast. Persons planning to attend the event are asked to make reservations. Tickets may be obtained at the Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue or from the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's.

Sheriff William B. Martin will be the guest speaker at the annual Ulster County Masonic Communion Breakfast at St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Avenue, Sunday morning beginning at 8.

The service and breakfast this year will be sponsored by Kingston Lodge 10.

Rod Laver Realizes the Impossible Dream

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rod Laver stood astride the tennis world today with an achievement that topped his two grand slams and would have broken the bank at Las Vegas, Nev., if the odds-makers had laid a line against him.

Laver completed perhaps the most spectacular "slam" in tennis history when he defeated Tom Okker of Holland, 7-5, 6-2, 6-1, at Madison Square Garden Friday night to give him 13 victories in 13 matches in the Tennis Champions Classic.

Competing against the greatest tennis players in the world, Laver won 11 straight $10,000-winner-take-all matches, won a 12th match for $15,000 and beat Okker in the 13th match for a prize of $35,000. That gave him total earnings of $160,000 for sweeping through 13 matches unbeaten.

Laver, who twice won the classic "grand slam" of tennis—the United States, French, Wimbledon and Australian championships—was never in serious trouble although Okker took the first set to sudden death. Laver simply had too much power and all-around court skills for Okker to cope with.

The 13-for-13 sweep, which started with a victory over fellow Australian Ken Rosewall last Jan. 2, included triumphs over John Newcombe, Tony Roche, Arthur Ashe, Roger Taylor, Okker, Roy Emerson and Dennis Ralston en route to the final match.

It was so unlikely that Las Vegas odds-makers refused to issue a line on it when officials of Tennis Champions Classic asked for one last January. The odds-makers said the odds against a sweep were "astronomical."

"I played some of the best tennis I ever played," said Laver, commenting on the victory over Okker. "I noticed that Tom's backhand was extremely sharp so I moved to his forehand and it paid off. I don't believe I have ever had better concentration in a match."

"He made me work so hard it took me 10 minutes to win my own service," said Okker, who earned $15,000 for his night's work. "The way I play him, I just can't seem to beat him." A crowd of 8,322 saw Laver wrap up his night's work in an hour and 15 minutes.

Long Beach State Seeks Revenge on Tired UCLA

By United Press International
Revenge-minded Long Beach State challenges mighty—and mighty tired—UCLA, while Philadelphia-style basketball prevails in the East, two teams who didn't figure to be there meet in the Midwest and two coaches who'll be seeing a lot of each other both love to win Villanova (25-6) at 2:10 p.m. their first meeting as the NCAA EST at Raleigh, N.C. Tenth regional basketball tournaments ranked Ohio State (20-5) tangles with seventh-ranked Western Kentucky at 4:05 p.m. at 8:45, in last year's regionals. UCLA, described by coach John Wooden as more tired than in any previous game this season, will open Brigham Young University, 91-73, Thursday night in the semi-finals. Long Beach came from Coach Terry Tarkanian's behind to drop University of No. 1, and there's no doubt about it, UCLA is No. 1," again and I think we can beat them," he said.

Wooden singled out his defense as the difference in the team had defeated the Tigers. George Trapp, a 6-foot-7 senior forward, who scored 23 points to aid the 49ers' cause, is time this year. The Quakers won the first meeting, 78-70, and, in fact, have won every

"It will be great to play them again and I think we can beat them," he said.

Penn will seek to extend its three-year sweep through the ranks of Villanova teams when the two clash for the second time this year. The Quakers won the first meeting, 78-70, and, in fact, have won every meeting of the two schools over the last three years.

Penn reached the regional finals by overcoming a tough South Carolina squad, 79-64, Thursday night as Villanova, led by 6-foot-8 center Howard Porter, turned back hustling Fordham, 85-75.

"I don't know that it (Philadelphia-style basketball) is any different from basketball played anywhere else in the country, but it is tough, hard basketball and the underdog always has a good shot at winning," said Wildcat coach Jack Kraft.

A battle of seven-foot centers—Luke Witte of Ohio State and Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky—will highlight the Midwest battle.

The Buckeyes, dominated by sophomores, got off to a 4-4 start but won 15 of their last 16 regular-season games and the Big Ten title en route to a 60-59 upset Thursday night over Marquette, snapping the Warriors' two-season, 39-game win streak.

The Hilltoppers, who battled back from an 18-point deficit last Saturday to beat 1970 NCAA runnerup Jacksonville, had a surprisingly easy game against Kentucky, crushing the Wildcats, 107-63.

Atlanta Hawks Clinch NBA Playoff Berth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If, as they say, the Navy gets the gravy while the Army gets the beans, the Atlanta Hawks are the arm of the National Basketball Association and the Detroit Pistons are the peat bog soldiers.

The Hawks clinched the second and last playoff berth in the Central Division Friday night with a 112-111 overtime triumph over the Chicago Bulls but still show only a 35-45 record.

The Pistons, meanwhile, downed Buffalo 111-105 for a team record 44th victory, but are dommed to a last-place finish in the tough Midwest Division.

Elsewhere, it was Philadelphia 147, Cincinnati 127; Boston 125, Baltimore 117; Phoenix 111, Los Angeles 106; San Diego 111, Milwaukee 99 and Portland 135, Seattle 128.

In the ABA, Indiana turned in the Hawks while Hazzard had 19 and Walt Bellamy 18, along with 21 rebounds. Chet Walker had 22 for the Bulls.

Walt Hazzard's driving shot with 27 seconds left gave the Hawks their victory and erased some of the sting from their miserable start this season, but they couldn't agree on whether it merited a celebration.

Loud Hudson and Pete Maravich scored 22 points apiece for the Hawks while Hazzard had 19 and Walt Bellamy 18, along with 21 rebounds. Chet Walker had 22 for the Bulls.

Portland's Geoff Petrie scored a career-high 45 points in the Blazers' victory over Seattle. His total brought him within 60 points of being only the seventh NBA player to score 2,000 points in the rookie season. Spencer Haywood paced the Sonics with 32 points.

The Phoenix Suns dealt Los Angeles its eighth loss since the Lakers lost star guard Jerry West to knee problems. Dick Van Arsdale hit 25 points for the Suns while Wilt Chamberlain scored 23 for LA.

Melnyk Shares Lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Burly amateur Steve Melnyk peeled off 32 pounds recently on a rigorous diet and as a result says he is "hitting the ball longer than I ever have in my life."

Melnyk, now a "svelte" 233 pounds, continued to put the pressure on the pros going into today's third round of the $125,000 Greater Jacksonville Open, sharing the lead with defending champion Don January at 7-under-par 137.

Melnyk refused to fade under January's furious charge Friday and finished with a one-under-par 71 over the windy, rain-swept 6,943-yard Hidden Hills Country Club Course. Considering the adverse conditions, Melnyk said he actually played better than during his opening round of 66.

Melnyk and January played early in the day with wind gusts up to 25 miles per hour on their front nine and a cold, steady rain on the back nine. The rain quit about noon but the late starters were still bothered by high winds.

Former University of Houston star Hal Underwood moved into third place Friday with a 70 for a 139 total, two strokes off the pace. Underwood, making only his third start this year, explained that he misses two weeks out of every month because of army reserve commitments.

Lee Trevino, who shared the first round lead with Melnyk at faded to a 77 and just did make the 148 cutoff for the final two rounds. Jack Nicklaus had a 75 course refusing all interviews for a 146 total.

He was joined at 140 by Gary Player, Doug Ford and Dave Eichelberger.

Player, who fired a 70 Friday, holed a 210-yard two-iron shot on the 440-yard sixth hole for an eagle. Ford posted a 69 and Eichelberger had a 71.

John Miller was alone at 141, four strokes back, while Wilf Homenuik, Bob Erickson, Hale Irwin and Frank Beard were grouped at 142. John Schlee and Vic Loustalot, who shared third place Thursday at 68, posted 75a Friday to join Paul Harney and Hugh Royer at 143.

Arnold Palmer, seeking his third tour victory of the year, faded to a 77 and just did make the 148 cutoff for the final two rounds. Jack Nicklaus had a 75 course refusing all interviews for a 146 total.

NIT Event Starts Today

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Invitation Tournament, once the jewel of college basketball tournaments but now a "tournament of losers," opens at Madison Square Garden Saturday with five games beginning at 11 A.M. EST.

Once the most prestigious tournament in the country, the NIT now plays second fiddle to the NCAA tournament and is composed of teams that finished second or third in various conferences and strong independents.

It is likely to be a financial and artistic success, however, inasmuch as the 16 teams are good ones, if not the best in the national ratings, and receives plenty of publicity from the New York-based national news media.

The tournament gets underway when North Carolina (22-6) opposes Massachusetts (22-3) at 11 A.M. with Louisville (20-8) facing Providence (17-7) and Duke (18-8) taking on Dayton (18-8) in the other games of the morning-afternoon triple-header.

In the evening, it will be St. John's (18-8), the only New York team in the field, against Tennessee (20-6) and LaSalle

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 20, 1971

'A Pretty Great Guy'

The sudden about-face by the New York City Council of Churches concerning an award for a truly great American makes one wonder just who is occupying the pulpits of our places of worship in these trying days.

The N. Y. Church Council this week withdrew an earlier designation of entertainer Bob Hope as recipient of its annual Family of Man Award.

Instead of Hope, the Council then selected the late Whitney M. Young Jr. to receive this award posthumously.

We are not objecting to the honor bestowed upon the late executive director of the National Urban League, as most of us realize he was a stellar figure in the civil rights movement and should go down in history as one of the black men who really knew how "to cool it."

But we do object to the basis of the sand-bagging of Mr. Hope.

The award was withdrawn because of the pressure from a group of liberal young ministers who happened to think Hope was too closely identified with the military establishment.

Their stand was this—"There is nothing in Mr. Hope's record of public commitment to the three pressing issues that confront the council—poverty, racial justice and peace. On the contrary, Mr. Hope has uncritically supported the military establishment."

What this great entertainer has done for the morale of this nation—not only in his pilgrimages to Vietnam, Korea, Thailand—in this present topsy-turvy world—but to the South Pacific, England, Alaska and other points throughout the world—is immeasurable—both to the servicemen and their families at home as well. Does this, then, mark him too closely identified with the military establishment? We hardly think so.

Ask any World War II veteran, and indeed, any Vietnam veteran who has seen Bob Hope in action on the many warfronts of the world. He hasn't made these annual tours to glorify the military. He has done this purely to entertain while at the same time sacrificing holidays with his own family. And all of this is to be criticized?

Perhaps Dr. Dan Potter, executive director of the New York City Council of Churches, summed it all up best after he had contacted Bob Hope's office and told about the award reversal.

Dr. Potter said the comedian "understands and there are no hard feelings."

That in itself marks him as a pretty great guy, Dr. Potter concluded. And we can only add amen.

Catholic Charities

In a dynamic new approach towards easing the social ills of our time, Catholic Charities and the Archdiocesan Office of Education are reaching out together to find workable solutions to the problems besetting communities in the 10-county Archdiocese of New York, which includes Ulster.

Ambassadors of the charity appeal will begin making personal calls on Catholic families in this area on Sunday as a major part of the fund-raising efforts this year.

In a major grassroots level attack on these problems a vastly expanded program of health, welfare and educational services will be directed to drug abusers and emotionally disturbed youth; children deprived of a home and parental love; adults, children and youth who are educationally undernourished; the lonely aging in need of nursing home care and retarded children requiring special education.

With the goal of aiding the needy in all communities and gaining the involvement and concern of all people, it is fitting that the theme of the 1971 Catholic Charities and Education Appeal is Put More Love in Your Life.

The power of love to change the world is a message that has been passed down through the centuries. Catholic Charities and Education will strive to harness that power to transform every parish and neighborhood into communities of brotherly love and neighborly concern for the common welfare of all citizens.

Consequently it is in the interest of members of the total community to contribute their just share of thought, resources and love to help Catholic Charities and Education realize their goal of reconstructing our communities on the bedrock of shared personal concern for each other's welfare.

In their efforts to bring service and leadership to neighborhood whenever and wherever they are needed, Catholic Charities and Education deserve your strong support.

No longer can a round collar or a policeman's badge guarantee good character. Two robbers donned these costumes to snatch $8,500 from a Dowington, Pa., bank last week. Cops and clergymen generally tread the straight-and-narrow. But that clothes do not of virtue make anyone, nor certify a man to be higher than others, also applies outside banks, with regard to other walks of life.

"So, Speak Up!"

Henry J. Taylor Says N. Y. Times in Economic Vise

The hard-pressed New York Times is handing layoffs to employees that are as jolting to many as the two-inch jab made famous by Joe Frazier. Says publisher Arthur Ochs Sulzberger in an internal memorandum: "We want you to know what a difficult situation The New York Times is in."

First, the Times omitted its dividend. Then it tried austerity on a wider and wider scale. But its costs rose $6.4 million last year. Now Mr. Sulzberger estimates that the Times' new labor contract will increase this year's costs $10.4 million.

"The Times is in an economic vise," says Mr. Sulzberger.

What's the matter at the Times and some similarly situated publications that Mr. Sulzberger enumerated? Profits have gone down the drain—the very thing, so often made to sound like legalized graft and economic skulduggery, that cheats us of the things we need. In short, profits—a dirty word.

In forums, in Congress, in universities and elsewhere the need for and the risk for profits are usually given the heave-ho—a favorite trick of Harvard blowhard economics professor J. Kenneth Galbraith. There's scant thought of enterprise as a job-giving factor and the enterprisers' needed reward also is ignored.

These practicing image-makers say they are for the underdog—and who isn't? However, their pitch is about as useful as a surgeon who tries to cure a patient of his trouble by cutting out his heart and throwing it away.

This ruinous approach to profits poisons much in our social climate. Infiltrates our tax laws, shapes unions' demands as on The New York Times, the railroads, and whatnot, and grows increasingly destructive like the outward spreading heart disease. The traditional answer to a beggar on the streets of Spain is: "Have patience." But patience with this idea is fatal.

One way to punctuate this idea is to get a picture of a profitless economy and see what it would look like in the end.

Take bread, for no other reason than because it's called the staff of life.

Our bread, of course, starts with wheat. The Russian farmer feeds himself and two others. The American farmer feeds himself and 17 others. In spite of the horrendous theories, medieval myths and bureaucratic rabbit warrens that constitute our farm program, the American farmer is—literally—the most productive man in the world. The golden spring and winter wheat crops leave his fields for our tables in 600,000 freight-car loads a year!

Now, obviously the farmer must make a profit or he could not buy, maintain and operate his essential machinery.

Next, isn't the railroads' profit equally essential? Our railroads must invest an estimated $30 million during the next 10 years to meet their traffic responsibilities. Yet their profit averages only one-tenth of a cent for carrying a ton one mile among those railroads that make any profit at all. They earn only about 2.4 per cent return on their tremendous investment. Meanwhile, in a single 20-hour period the railroads pay about $2.5 million in taxes and more than $13 million wages.

The flour miller must make a profit or he couldn't have the money to buy, maintain and operate his essential machinery and distribute wages to everyone working for him.

Next, that baker must make a profit or he (and we) are up against it for exactly the same reasons. Grocery manufacturers as a whole retain a profit of less than three cents on the grocery-basket dollar. We consume at least 70 million loaves of bread a day. Bakers must have ovens, wrapping machines, trucks and countless other essentials. And how is the baker able to pay the workers' wages if he doesn't make a profit? Even Mr. Sulzberger, who has the facilities to know many things, cannot tell him.

How much would we have to pay for our bread and how much bread would we get if the profitless farmer, carrying his sack down the empty track of the profitless railroad to the profitless flour mill for delivery to the profitless baker?

Profits have made our progress possible, even though they are uncertain and elusive. They do not grow on trees. The profitless economy is only a sad, and dangerous dream. It would be hard for windbag-professor Galbraith, et al., to sell its advantages just now to the laid-off workers at The New York Times.

Jack Anderson Says Housing Lumber Sizes Are Shaved Again but Prices Go Up

WASHINGTON—A confidential congressional memo warns that house prices may soar this spring as a result of the new federal standards for softwood lumber.

The standards adopted on September 1 were "so inept and ill conceived," charges the memo, "that home builders and building supply companies held off until December and January to place orders for wood cut under the new standards."

The result was a flood of orders impossible to fill. This already has forced softwood lumber prices up about 50 per cent since January 1. The memo predicts prices will soar even higher during the spring construction boom.

The confidential memo, submitted by the staff of a House investigating subcommittee to Chairman John Dingell, D-Mich., calls for government action "to assure that the lumber industry does not use a temporary shortage of product as an excuse to engage in excessive price gouging."

The staff memo also alleges that the new standards reduce minimum sizes and, in some cases, lumber quality. Under the new standards, a two-by-four, previously less than 2 by 4 inches, is now actually one-and-a-half inches by three-and-a-half inches. Other lumber sizes are also reduced to less than previous dimensions.

Lumber lobbyists in the past have argued that these size reductions would result in lower lumber prices. Instead, the new leaner lumber still sells for the old fat lumber prices.

"Rather than protecting and promoting the consumer interest by promulgating these new lumber standards," the memo concludes, "the Department of Commerce has foisted on the American public a cruel hoax that will result in less house for the money. The only gainer is the lumber manufacturer, and his gain is the consumers' loss."

Footnote: The timber lobby is never at a loss for a new way to cut down a tree. It has organized a "99 Club" which asks $99 from each member through the Forest Products Political Education Committee. The money is funneled out to friendly Congressmen, Senators and other elected officials. The $99 gimmick permits the politicians to get around reporting requirements. They can lump the money, without identifying the contributor, with their "contributions under $100."

Undaunted by congressional carping, President Nixon has been pushing his revenue-sharing plan with missionary zeal.

He brought Agriculture Secretary Cliff Hardin over to the White House the other day to brief Republican congressional leaders on the Administration's plan for diverting federal revenue to rural areas.

Over cups of coffee, they listened to Hardin explain how the program would deal with the problems of the farmers.

"How many federal agencies now handle water and sewer auditing?" demanded the President, frowning in anticipation of Hardin's answer.

"Seven, Mr. President," said the Secretary.

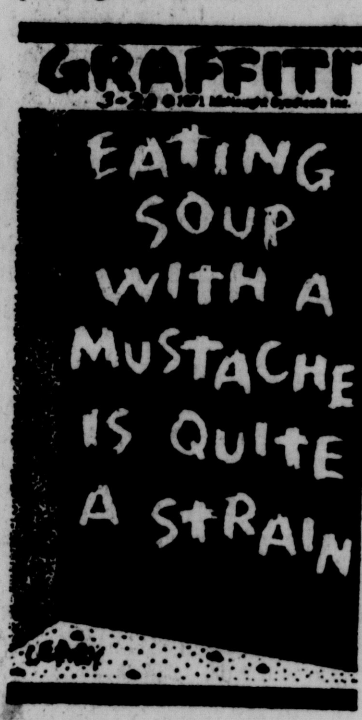

"One of the advantages of revenue sharing," lectured Nixon, "would be to consolidate these programs. This way, you send the money to the communities and save the paperwork of seven agencies."

The President insisted his revenue-sharing ideas had made a hit with Midwestern governors.

"We met with several governors out there," he said, "and everyone we met with supports our revenue-sharing programs."

Military Gripes—We have reported how the military brass, faced with budget cuts, have continued to pamper themselves but have slashed spending for the lower ranks.

Military Secrets—Our report last January that GIs have traded military secrets for drugs kicked up a storm. We told how the plans for B-52 raids, wangled from GIs for stashes of marijuana or caps of heroin, had been delivered to a Soviet trawler off Okinawa's Minitagouwa Point. The trawler's high-powered transmitters flashed the information to Hanoi, we reported, in time for the North Vietnamese "to move their trucks off the Ho Chi Minh trails before the B-52 bombers arrived." Last week a North Vietnamese defector, named Nguyen Trong Quyen, revealed in Saigon that North Vietnamese commanders received at least 30 minutes' notice before B-52 strikes. "North Vietnamese intelligence can tell exactly where the strikes will be made," Quyen said. "The units in the area are then ordered to leave."

Facts Guide Nixon on Laos Incursion, Not the Polls

BRUCE BISSOAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon always has had a streak of fatalism in him, and he's letting it show as he deals with the U.S.-supported incursion into Laos by South Vietnamese forces. He is taking his chances with shaky public opinion.

He knows a poll shows that, of those Americans who wish to express a view, a small majority disapproves the Loatian venture.

In his interview with the New York Times, the President said he had no doubt polls would show the people favoring withdrawals of troops from Europe as well as Vietnam, not to mention military budget cuts. But he added: "Polls are not the answer. You look at the facts."

What he meant was that he is acting in accord with his judgment of national interest and responsibility. He spoke as if he had just been reading lines by diplomatic historian Herbert Feis. In his new book, "From Trust to Terror," Feis writes:

"Public opinion can inspire or frustrate a president. He can neither ignore nor yield supinely to it. He must be its judge, not its servant."

... when peace or war is at issue, the president cannot leave the decision to others without forfeiting the responsibilities of his office."

Nixon, having already withdrawn upwards of 220,000 men from Vietnam and indicated his intent to pull out thousands more, clearly is responding to wide public disenchantment with the war. Yet there is fresh evidence that he will manage the pull-out only in ways he thinks will minimize South Vietnam's prospects of independent survival. And this, obviously, without too much concern for the public's view.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's huge new report on U.S. defense posture contains the fresh emphasis. If lingering doubt existed, it is gone. The President does not intend to take the last U.S. forces from Vietnam until he is as satisfied as he can possibly be that Hanoi cannot conquer it.

Though this has often been surmised, the administration from the time of Cambodia in 1970 has justified any heightened military activity as designed to protect U.S. troops and promote their pull-out.

Yet Laird's report never talks of "Vietnamization" (build-up of Saigon forces) as if it were simply a device to withdrawals. The report's deadly earnest theme is that we intend to make South Vietnam's forces "self-reliant" against any conceivable aggression from the north.

Laird observes that one of the key assumptions underlying the Vietnamization program is that "as long as the conflict continued, Free World assistance to South Vietnam would be required."

This, of course, means American assistance. And it means some measure of it until the war is over.

In the third and final phase of Vietnamization as projected by Laird, we would have in that county a residual military advisory commission — along with "whatever small security forces" are needed to protect it. What this all represents in force numbers we may not know for a long time, but the guessing here has been 50,000 men.

Before we get to that, however, we will have to run through Phase II—the period in which Saigon's armies develop full air, naval, artillery and logistics capabilities. Our heavy support of the Laos incursion indicates how far off this goal is.

Since South Vietnamese soldiers must learn English as a base for complex training in these crucial support endeavors, Phase II could be a painful, protracted time of transition. And it could test severely Nixon's resolve to withdraw us without imperiling our ally.

'I Will Prepare Myself...'

Dale Carnegie & Assoc., Inc., New York

© 1968, Dale Carnegie & Assoc., Inc. June is a fortunate woman! She is dark and strikingly attractive. She is married to a prominent and very successful business man in a small western community. June has five lovely children and a beautiful home. She has a magnetic personality, and all who meet her recognize her genuine self-confidence, that calm self-assurance that lets others know she is in full control of herself in any situation. But it was not always that way with June.

Just a few years ago she was shy, backward, frightened, and terribly inhibited individual. She was miserable at the thought of meeting other people, whether they were strangers or those she knew. She would, literally, stay away from people. She would avoid meetings of the P.T.A., and other organizations in her community, because of her dreadful fear of others.

Fortunately, June found the solution to her one great problem. She overcame her fear of people. Someone convinced her that, if she would learn to stand before a group of people and express herself, she would develop a genuine confidence in herself that would spill over into every phase of her life.

She finally accepted the challenge. It was hard for her at first, but she diligently applied herself, and within a period of three short months June awoke to the thrilling realization that her fear was gone.

About one year later, that once poor, shy, miserable, inhibited girl, who had been held back only by her deep seated fear of people, was invited to serve as chief hostess for a national convention. She readily accepted, and enjoyed the time of her life throughout the entire event.

June had found the quickest and easiest way to develop a foundation of genuine self-confidence. She was released from a mental bondage of false inhibitions and fear. She was set free to express her true self and to become, in the eyes of those who knew her, a much more interesting woman.

June did not aspire to be a public speaker, although on several occasions she found it fun. Her real interest was the by-product, the self-confidence that permeated every phase of her life was the most important. Countless thousands of both men and women have found the same secret. They have found that when they lose their fear of an audience they lose, at the same time, many of their other fears as well. They have found that, through the development of our personal abilities, we can prepare ourselves for a richer and more rewarding life.

Liberated Modern Woman And King Solomon's Wisdom

By LOUIS CASSELS

UPI Religion Writer

An "interview" on women's liberation with the author of that ancient compendium of Hebrew wisdom, the biblical Book of Proverbs:

Q. Where is woman's place?

A. The wisest women build up their homes. Prov. 14:1

Q. What does a foolish woman do?

A. She raises her voice in public places. Prov. 1:20

Q. What kind of woman gets involved in these protest movements?

A. A woman never content to stay at home. She is loud and wayward, now in the street, now in the market, lying wait at every corner. Prov. 7:11-12

Q. What kind of woman do you prefer?

A. A lovely doe, a graceful hind. Prov. 5:19

Q. That type makes a good companion, huh?

A. You will at all times be bathed in her love; when you lie in bed, she will watch over you, and when you wake she will talk with you. Prov. 5:19

Q. You believe that character and intelligence are more important than charm and good looks?

A. Charm is a delusion and beauty fleeting. Prov. 31:30

Q. How do you feel about the institution of marriage?

A. Better to live alone in an attic than share a palace with a nagging wife. Prov. 21:9

Q. What if a guy is lucky enough to find a good, loyal and loving wife?

A. Her worth is far beyond jewels. Prov. 3:10

Variety in Entertainment

MUSIC. drama, carnival student Joe Ferone; Val Denis capers — whatever your as Alice Blake a student who pleasure, the social spectrum Sylvia's help. for the coming week will supply. The more personal side of Sylvia's life is taken up by Paul Barringer, played by Bill Schachtel, a senior, the suave Down Staircase which will be staged at the auditorium next Friday and Saturday. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. both nights. Tickets may be obtained by contacting the high school. Only a limited number of tickets will be sold at the door.

Other characters a melange of school administrators who suffer from either battle fatigue or dreams of grandeur, and a New York inner city school, is a group of noisy but lovable students, make up the rest of it with troubled and confused youngsters, harassed teachers and overburdened administrators.

Directed by Mrs. Jan O'Connor, KHS English teacher, the play includes Ginny Scherer as Sylvia Barrett, the young teacher; Vic Osborne as J. J. McHabe, school disciplinarian; Other technical aspects, such as lighting, recording, costumes, make-up, props and publicity are all under the direction of student managers.

The Interact Club of Saugerties High School is making plans for the second annual Collarmen concert benefit to be presented Friday 7:30 p.m. at the SHS auditorium.

Proceeds from the concert will be donated directly to the sustaining fund of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and to the Interact Club a school service club which plans in turn to donate proceeds to the uniform fund of the Saugerties High School Band. Music begets more music it would seem.

The Collarmen, a singing group from Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary, Esopus, has had an ever changing staff during its six year history but the goals remain the same. "To share a song is to share a part of life." Present members under the leadership of the Rev. Gerry LaPorte are Fathers Norman Bennett, Tom Brooks, Marty Marquez, Paul Knapp, Sam Maranto, Steve Robach and Jerry Moody.

Tickets will be available at the door. Admission is free for senior citizens who may obtain tickets by contacting the high school.

Tonight the Onteora Central School gym will be transformed into a midway as the Class of 1972 presents the annual Junior Carnival.

This year many new and exciting games have been devised to make this the best carnival ever. Along with the many booths, games and races, Carnival time is 7 to 9:30 p.m. Immediately following there will be dancing to the music of West Wind featuring Lonnie Van Wagner.

Next week at Onteora the carnival clan will be replaced by the square dancers beat and tomp. The Onteora Student Chapter of AFS will stage the Spring Sprung fun event with proceeds going to the club's foreign exchange efforts. Caller will be John O'Leary of West Hurley.

KHS PLAY — Going into final rehearsals for their production of Up the Down Staircase, Kingston High School students enact classroom drama. Ginny Scherer (l) as teacher Sylvia Barrett is confronted by hostile student played by Allan Souers while Carolyn Hughes and Diana Morrissey look on in horror. The play will be presented March 26 and 27 at the Kingston High School auditorium under the direction of Mrs. Jan O'Connor, KHS English teacher. Curtain time s 8:30 p.m. both days.

Youth in the News

Spotlighted on stage in this week's Youth in the News are two Kingston area girls who will appear in a State University College at Fredonia dramatic production.

Marie Beichert of Kingston and Karen Sparks of Woodstock will appear in The Mummer's presentation of Arthur Miller's ship.

Kathy Foltner, a senior at Grier School, a country boarding school for girls at Tyrone, Pa., was recently named to the National Honor Society for outstanding scholarship achievement and leadership qualities.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Ann Foltner of 99 Madison Avenue, Kingston, and the late Hugh M. Foltner.

Kathy is serving as president of the Grier School Horse Club and was active in the local horse show circuit last summer. She also served as captain of the cheerleading squad. She plans to study psychology when she enters college in the fall.

Virginia is one of two students elected to represent the class of 1974 on the nine-member court. She will serve a three-year term.

Graduation news from Western State College in Gunnison, Colo., lists a Kingston girl as one of the winter quarter graduates. She is Mary K. Fowler of 17 Wilkie Avenue. Although the quarter closed yesterday diplomas will not be distributed until commencement June 4 for the 67 students completing work for MA and BA degrees.

Two area students were tapped for Phi Theta Kappa, National Junior College Honorary fraternity at State University of New York Agricultural and Technical College at Cobleskill recently.

Selected for membership were Janine W. Cave, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cave.

Film Feature

The film, The Street Where the Lonely Walk, will be shown at Grace Community Church, Lake Katrine Sunday 6 p.m.

The color film was written directed and photographed by the Rev. John Benton, director of the Walter Hoving Home for troubled girls in Garrison. Members of the cast are affiliated with Teen Challenge many from the current staff at the Walter Hoving Home. The drama is concerned with a young girl caught in the web of drug addiction.

HI-Y HELP — Members of the Boys and Girls Hi-Y Clubs of the YMCA present $100 check to Jan Hedley, chairman of the YMCA World Service Committee. The donation, made possible through various social events sponsored by the clubs, will be used toward support of a YMCA youth camp project in Panama. Making the presentation are (l-r) Mary O'Reilly, Don Williams, Nancy Plunket and Dave Kwasnowski. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

TEEN SCENE

By LEI

Susan ordered a pair of blue pantyhose, and received fifteen red frizbees and a bill for $9,439. A boy wrote a letter to a lovelorn columnist asking what to do—he had fallen in love with the computer at school. Dale had an accident with his car in Connecticut. Within minutes state police there had Dale's New York driving record—complete with the fact that his license was suspended. Sheila was badly burned. The hospital computer saved vital hours in matching her blood type.

Computers—laugh at them, hate them, love them—but face it—They're here to stay. Younger teens, who never remember a day when checks didn't have a row of odd-shaped numbers at the bottom, take the miracle machines for granted. Older teens sometimes regard the mechanical brains with a mixture of awe and dismay. Many teens whose schools include a computer laboratory are learning firsthand the capacities of computers, and while most do not go to the extremes of the boy who fell in love with one, familiarity seems to lead to affection of sorts—and a more complete understanding of the machine's limitations.

While one-third of the nation's high schools use computers in the administrative or educational operations, it has to be estimated that only about 13 per cent of all high school students receive any education by or about computers. Only 3 per cent to 5 per cent use the computer as a problem-solving tool in math, chemistry, or physics—with school approval, that is. (One boy attending a less-enlightened school talked his father into taking his math homework to the office and feeding it into the computer. The idea worked until a teacher became suspicious of the sudden number of perfect papers.) Authorities are alarmed by the small number of students receiving education by and (more importantly) in the use of computers. The supply of computer technicians will fall short of the demand in far less than a decade, they warn. In addition, some educators feel that the computers can perform many of the time-consuming "drudgery" steps in education, thus allowing students to concentrate on the exciting, challenging aspects of their studies. They claim that by taking the boredom out of education, "dropout" can be taken out of the dictionary.

Also favoring computers are results obtained in student-availability computer programs. For instance, when a class in Setauket, N. Y., started out programs for a computer to teach them some of their high school subjects, they not only improved in math and science, but also in the subjects that they were "teaching" the computer to teach. (This won't surprise anyone who ever tried to explain their toughest subject to a younger student!)

Some of the students find that they can't tear themselves away from the computer at the end of the class. Others are more skeptical. A magazine issued by a major computer manufacturer quoted a 15-year-old San Jose sophomore stating, "The computers of the United States remind me of the slaves of Rome. They're gradually destroying the individual by taking away from us all the worthwhile things we do. The result, I think, is that men will stagnate in this country." Some feel that the reason so few teachers press for computer education is that they have apprehensions that someday, machines may take over the entire teaching process.

The kids who work with the equipment regard the computer with much less dread—and slightly less respect—than most adults. Without the computers, men could not land on the moon, but it took the man to provide a touch of humor with a smuggled golf ball. The newest musical instrument, the Moog, is a computer, its true, but the sounds it produces still depend on the skill of man at the keyboard. Computers can play a simple chess game, but they are incapable of feeling happiness at victory. One very advanced computer can "think" on the level of a rather dumb chimp—it can solve a problem like using a board as a ramp to ascend a step that it can't otherwise maneuver. But it can't show the fear, contentment, or rage of the chimp. Computers are limited to what men are able to teach them, at this point, and since men make mistakes, so do the computers. Men can use their logic to keep them from making our weekly paychecks for $179,438.87, but computers have no logical properties. Yet. But some computer technicians get chills considering what could happen when computers are developed that can build and program other computers. In theory, the computers could develop some super-machine vastly superior in knowledge if not intelligence to any man. Sometime, someone might even discover the process for programming emotions into a computer.

That could be the day a lonely hearts columnist would get a letter from a boy complaining that his computer has a crush on him. Not that he has anything against computers, but this one weighs three tons, and she keeps trying to sit in his lap...

COLLARMEN — The famed Collarmen of Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary prepare for benefit concert to be presented in Saugerties March 26. The 7:30 p.m. performance will be at the Saugerties High School auditorium with proceeds going to Interact Club of SHS and the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. Members of the current Collarmen group are the Rev. Gerry LaPorte, leader, and Fathers Norman Bennett, Tom Brooks, Marty Marquez, Paul Knapp, Sam Maranto, Steve Robach and Jerry Moody.

New RV Activities

A welcome addition to the roster of extra-curricular groups at Rondout Valley Central High School this year is the Drama Club. Under the aegis of Mrs. Marian Eckert of the English Department, eight students are enjoying this new experience. Currently the club is working to present a one-act play for presentation at an assembly this spring.

Both a work and a learning experience, the club recently got a taste of real backstage action. Liz Kates, Becky Berg, Terry Morgan and Craig Eldridge joined with the Kingston Drama Club to set up stage equipment for the National Theatre Group's presentation of Androcles and the Lion in the Kingston High School auditorium. Working with a professional company was an exciting experience for the club members as they had an opportunity to be part of the "now" approach to children's theatre: folk rock musical score, raised or semi-suspended type stage on a stage, flashing lights, and slides on an abstract background.

Another Drama Club project was a field trip this month to the State University College at New Paltz to attend a performance of Hamlet during the college's Shakespearean Festival.

Club secretary is Clare Wright. Other members are Gail Yorgen and Diane Younes. As the club matures, it is sure to attract other budding technicians and theatre buffs.

Recently four members of the club traveled to White Plains to attend the Eighth Annual Westchester High School Chess Tournament. Michael Birk, Dan Holly, Joseph Konen and Steve Robinson, accompanied by the Club Advisor Lewis Lottridge, participated in the event. The tournament lasted two days, with a total of seven games played by each contestant. The Rondout club finished in ninth place, which pleased the members very much, as they were in competition with strong city teams. Each participant in the tournament received a national rating by the United States Chess Federation.

Plans to attend future tournaments are being considered. The club may also compete with other area teams as it did in the past.

The official seal of the Rondout Valley Central High School will soon grace all school letterheads, programs, memo pads and other suitable locations. Adopted last year after a School Seal contest, the emblem is the work of Anthony Pumilia and Aaron Randall.

The outer circle of the seal represents the "Circle of Life"; the triangle symbolizes the three phases of education at Rondout Valley Central — elementary, Middle School, High School — while the tongues of fire around the circle stand for "Council Fires", the school annual. The central figure, the Golden Gander, typifies the RVC mascot and also stands for the Ganders, nickname of school athletic teams.

The Rubella Umbrella is here.

It's now the law...all children entering school in New York must have a Rubella immunization certificate. Make sure your child has the protection of the Rubella Umbrella.

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruise

Dear Heloise:

Here is my hint that might help all home bakers.

When making a cherry, pineapple, banana, lemon or other fruit cake with a plain icing for a cake sale, school or church fair, or just for the family at home, buy some of those little inexpensive artificial fruits to decorate the side of the cake tray.

They are so attractive and different and save people from asking, "What kind of cake is this?"

Mrs. Roger Lemoine

Mrs. Lemoine, I'm sure you must take first prize at all the neighborhood bake sales.

Dear Heloise:

When you want to trim or cut the little tot's hair and you don't have a plastic cape, use one of those big plastic bibs that you probably have anyway.

Put it on backwards if you are doing the back and vice versa for the front. Does a great job of keeping hair off the clothes and out of their neck.

Lena Kloosterman

Dear Heloise:

When our two girls were at home, I made most of their dresses. Whenever I took their pictures and put it in our family album, I would paste in a piece of the material of the dress they were wearing.

They still enjoy looking back at the family album and saying, "Oh, I remember that dress!"

I am now doing the same with our granddaughter.

Mrs. Vance Bales

Dear Heloise:

I use face make-up on my legs. It's much less expensive than regular leg make-up and comes in so many more flattering shades.

Shirley Daphnis

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

This idea comes from my daughter-in-law.

If you have trouble getting postage stamps to stay on your letters, just address your letter and put the stamp on. Then sit on it while you are writing the letter.

Foolproof.

Mrs. M. Weikert

Dear Heloise:

When my granddaughter got married I took some of the scraps left over from her wedding dress (it had been hand-sewn) and made a large, round boudoir pillow.

Then I made large petals from the material in the bridesmaid's dresses and embroidered the name of each bridesmaid on a separate petal.

I attached these petals to the pillow using a big covered button of the same material.

It made a beautiful gift of remembrance and she just loved it.

Mrs. Elva Bell

Dear Heloise:

I don't crochet anymore, but have kept my crochet hooks for years. The one I use most now is the very fine hook, and the job I use it for is to remove lint and dust around buttons, collar tabs, and other hard-to-get-clean places on clothing.

I poke a hole through the fabric and then I can hook the lint collection out.

Mrs. F.B.S.

Dear Heloise:

I've discovered the easiest way to make chili.

Take one can of chili with beans, and one can of tomato soup. Just rinse the tomato soup can with a bit of water — no more than that. Let cook slowly till flavors blend and it thickens.

Eat plain, or pour it over macaroni for "Chili Mac."

Frankly, I think it is just as good as any I've made from scratch.

Mayor Signs Proclamation To Help POW

Concern for Prisoners of War and Men Missing in Action Week has been designated for March 21-27 by Mayor Francis R. Koenig to express deep concern for American men held prisoners in North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos. In his proclamation Mayor Koenig stated: "By publicly recognizing and by keeping focus of the world's attention on the men still kept as prisoners, we believe that the North Vietnam delegation to the Paris peace talks will eventually have to be forced to abide by the Geneva Convention. We can help do this by each one of us writing to the North Vietnam delegation in Paris. I am therefore requesting everyone in the City of Kingston to observe this week and to help try to get the release of the prisoners of war names, and to accord them the protection and rights of fair and humane treatment from the Geneva Convention." Pictured here with the mayor are (L-R) Mrs. Morton D. Alling III, president of Kingston Jaycees; and Mrs. Joaquin Espinosa, chairman of Prisoners of War letters. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Stout Heads Directors of YMCA

KINGSTON
Bruce F. Stout, manager of Manufacturing Engineering at IBM, Kingston, was unanimously elected president of the Board of Directors of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County at a recent meeting of the board, according to Sam S. Pepper, immediate past president. Stout, who joined the YMCA Board in 1968, resides on Lucas Avenue Extension, with his wife Edith, and son John. A daughter Patricia attends Russell Sage College.

"Stout has demonstrated a keen interest in the work of our YMCA," Pepper said. Stout has served as a member of the budget committee, property maintenance and insurance committee and personnel committee, serving as chairman of the latter committee for the past year. He has also served as a member of the Y Day Camp Committee, providing many volunteer hours in assisting with the maintenance of that facility. Elected a vice-president of the board in 1970, Stout served as a member of the executive committee during the past year, and now chairs that committee as well as the board of directors as president of the association.

Elected to serve with Stout for the 1971-72 term were Vice-presidents — Dr. Jack L. Roosa and Christus Larios, Secretary — the Rev. John Gilmore, Treasurer — Minford A. Overfield and Assistant Treasurer — Wayne Jones. This group also comprises the YMCA Executive Committee, of which Pepper also is a member as immediate past president.

About his election, Stout commented, "I appreciate the confidence expressed in me. It is a privilege to serve such an outstanding group of community leaders, and the many talents represented by the various persons on this Board tend to minimize the work load of its President. I shall do my very best to continue the forward momentum of this Association as it endeavors to provide needed services to the community, and to be relevant to the times."

Other members of the Board of Directors include Mrs. David Arnold, Chester Baltz Jr., John F. Burns III, Paul Coon, David Forester, Andrew Gilday, John Haulenbeek, Jan Headlee and Addison Jones.

Also, Robert L. Jones, Ronald LeBlanc, Marvin Millens, Robert B. Murray, Dr. Lewis Neporent, Robert B. O'Reilly, Michael Pagliaro, Mrs. McLean Reynolds, Richard Riseley, Stuart Smedes, Ralph Stewart and Jack Turk.

ROUGHING IT — It's lunchtime for third grade students at the George Washington School, but this is no ordinary lunch. In conjunction with their studies of the prairie and the early settlement of America, the school children sat down to a meal that consisted of foods that were a part of the daily diet of settlers and pioneers. Several parents and teachers were also invited to join in on the feast. There were no pizzas served this day. (Freeman photo by Haines).

History Workshop Focus on the Hudson

STONE RIDGE focus this spring on the Hudson River. It will be entitled "The River." The Workshop, to run from 7:30 to 9:30 on six Thursday nights, will explore the growth of the Hudson's course in terms of yesterday, today and tomorrow.

The Workshop, meeting at different locations throughout the county, will start on Thursday night, April 29, at the J. Wat-Geography and Ecology." The May 6 session, on May 6 at the Old Dutch Church in Kingston, will feature a lecture by Harry Rigby Jr., city historian in Kingston and a member of the city's Historic Landmarks Preservation Commission. His topic will be "The River — It's Native People."

On May 13, Dr. Charles A. Galyon will talk on "The River — Transportation Artery" at the County Courthouse in Kingston. He is a member of the Historic Landmarks Preservation Commissions of both Kingston and Ulster County and also is a director of the Friends of Historic Kingston.

The fourth session will be on May 20 at the Kingston High School Auditorium. The speaker will be Donald C. Ringwald, author of the "Hudson River Day Line" and the soon to be published, "Mary Powell, Queen of the Hudson," who will speak on "Hudson River Steamboating." On May 27, there will be a round-up, featuring all the speakers with audience participation, on "The River," at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

Certificates of attendance will be awarded to all participants in the Workshop at a program scheduled at Beaver House, the home of the Ulster County Historical Society in Marltown, at 7:30 p.m. on June 3.

The coordinators for the Workshop are Mr. Rigby and Professor Harry Matzen, chairman of the Department of History and Political Science at UCC.

Attendance at the Workshop will open new horizons to participants into the shaping of a home area and will furnish a blueprint for preserving the Hudson River's unique heritage in the future.

An interest in regional history is the only requisite for anyone wanting to take the course.

Bell's Vote Affirmative on Licensing Law Change

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) this week voted in favor of legislation removing smokeless powder from the licensing provisions of the Labor Law. The proposal passed the Assembly.

The legislation was proposed by Assemblyman Frederick L. Warder (R-Geneva), chairman of the Labor Committee, and Assemblyman Bell at the urging of thousands of sportsmen around the state. The proposal was co-sponsored by 38 Assemblymen.

Assemblyman Bell said: "As a direct result of letters and personal pleas from sportsmen around the state, we have responded to their needs by eliminating a provision that serves as an annoyance to hunters and sportsmen, but would not affect the restrictions designed to stop the acquisition and use of explosives by bombers and terrorists."

The Assemblyman explained that under the existing law, all hunters and sportsmen must be licensed if they use powder to reload their own shells. Applying for the license includes paying a $2.50 application fee, obtaining notarization, undergoing fingerprinting, and then waiting three weeks to a RED HOOK, Charles Back, Manpower director of DCCEO, which also maintains an office in Red Hook, explained the Rural Dutchess Development Corporation of the Harlem Valley as a non-profit stock corporation, whose membership has to be two-thirds low income.

It is funded at a nine-to-one ratio by the Small Business Administration, and lends money to business ventures such as low-cost housing developers, service stations, and others.

In the process of generating capital and jobs, the corporation teaches managerial skills and assures that local problems will be treated locally. HAND committees also reported that a paint day will be conducted by volunteers March 27 at the United Methodist Hall where the Migrant Day Care Center was held last season.

It was announced that the Coffee House council of students and adults will become active; that transportation needs of welfare recipients were increased when the Department of Social Services cut down on visits; and the Northern Dutchess Day Care Center is seeking funds.

Dear Abby

Threatens to Leave

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have seven kids and a husband I cannot trust around the corner. When he goes out at night I never know how late he will be coming home. If at all. I have found lipstick on his handkerchiefs, and even on his underwear. If I yell at him and say I am going to leave him, he asks where I think I am going to find a man who will want a woman with seven kids. Then he tells me that he is going to leave me and find a quieter, more understanding woman.

I am a good woman. Neat and clean and folks say I am a good looker. What can I tell him?

ONE, PLUS SEVEN
DEAR ONE: You can tell him that it might be a lot easier for you to find a man, who will want you and your seven kids than it will be for him to find a more "quiet and understanding woman" who would want him after he gets through shelling out child support for seven kids.

Barbs

By PHIL PASTORET

The nicest thing to do first thing on Saturday morning is nothing.

If you hurry and get everything done you planned to do this Saturday, you'll just have time to get two hours' sleep Sunday night.

The automatic watch goes back to the dawn of history, and the first snoopy neighbor.

If someone calls you a perfect idiot, be modest; no one's perfect.

DEAR ABBY: Ouch! I saw myself in one of your letters, and it hurt. A girl wrote that her father came across an article in a magazine which he thought was very interesting so he read the whole long boring thing aloud to his daughter and her boy friend who was there at the time. The young fellow, obviously bored, got up in the middle of it and found himself a newspaper to read.

One of my faults is interrupting my wife while she's busy watching television in order to read something to her. It usually turns out that she wasn't interested in the article as I thought she'd be.

Come to think of it, Abby, maybe it was my wife who wrote that letter to you, and she used that "father-boy friend" bit just to throw me off the track.

I'm guilty, so I'll take 10 lashes with an old sermon outline.

KENTUCKY PREACHER
DEAR PREACHER: If the shoe fits, wear it. But I can't allow you to suspect your wife. The letter came from New York.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, age 16, is pregnant and the boy is 18. They want the baby and want to get married right away. That is all right with us and with his folks, too, but here is the problem.

We have heard that if they get married in Minnesota the judge could force them to give up the baby. If this is true, we will see to it that they get married in another state, like Iowa or Wisconsin. Or do they have the same laws as Minnesota?

Please understand, the parents of both the boy and girl are backing up these kids 100 per cent and are willing to help out.

DESPERATE IN MINNESOTA
DEAR DESPERATE: There is no such law in Minnesota, or in any other state.

DEAR ABBY: I cried when I read the letter from that mother who asked you how much room and board she should charge her son when he comes home from Viet Nam. If I knew that soldier's name and address I would invite him to come and live with my husband and me. For free.

We have a nice home and with an empty bedroom. Our only son was sent to Viet Nam a year ago. Three months later he was killed in action. He was only 18.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

Sunday, March 21

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now are able to perceive the best way to gain your down-to-earth ambitions by organizing your time and efforts more intelligently. You can build a better structure now under which to operate. Analyze your property and your assets. Take a practical approach and add to them. Be wise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day to get in touch with bigwigs. State your finest ambitions and gain their backing easily. Look for improvements that will make your work more efficient and easier. Stop wasting time. A good day to shop.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you adopt a new attitude and put new ideas to work, you can gain those personal aims you want so much. Plan that trip now and you will attain your goals more quickly. Show that you are a humanitarian.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you do some serious study and on your assets and liabilities, you can handle obligations better in the future. Listen to what mate has to suggest. Fine ideas can come from this.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Discuss with associates how best to work out mutual problems intelligently. Reach a new meeting of the minds and make the arrangements that are best for all concerned. Show that you are a wise person.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Begin work on some creative matter that makes a fine impression on bigwigs and those around you. Gain the support of an associate who has been lukewarm lately. Make the evening an ideal one with family.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know what your real obligations are and the best way to handle them. A fine day for planning and starting the ball rolling in the right direction. Show mate that you will be more cooperative in the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

Kin will now give support in project you want to venture into because you have been so conscientious in the past. Have a delightful evening at home with family tonight. Show gratitude.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to what a good person has to suggest so that you know how to get along better with an associate. Communicate with right persons and get good results in other matters. Show you are sane and sensible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day to think over future projects. Make plans to use your time and energy more constructively. If you really know what your goals are, they are easier to reach. Discuss plans with a bigwig tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Concentrating on improving your image and appearance makes this a worthwhile day. Attend the social in the evening and be with wise and progressive persons. Show that you have tact and charm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Exchange ideas with those who dwell with you and plan how to gain mutual goals more easily and quickly. Then contact an expert you trust for good advice. Start diet today, not tomorrow.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find out how much you can depend on good friends for assistance where you need it most, even if it is only moral support. Take time to handle correspondence wisely. Be wise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those sturdy young people who should do well in business. Direct education along such lines, since the money-maker is in this chart. However, do not neglect the lofty, philosophical concepts that could round out this life to its finest expression. Give an opportunity to travel and some musical education that will be a social asset. Sports are good here.

Monday, March 22

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A whole new set of circumstances which will enable you to participate in more social life. You will also find outlets through which you can make your life easier. Advanced and progressive ideas will up-date your current activities.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A bigwig helps to bring your aims closer by right support at the right moment; this gives you a big emotional and mental uplift as well. Social activities help a great deal right now. Show that you have fine talents.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Sit down with a bigwig and discuss intelligently how to make the future brighter, instead of being so proud and refusing to ask for assistance. Get your credit improved. Do something of a civic nature.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go out to some new place with a good pal and talk over some important matter. Confer only with persons of real character now. Writing to out-of-towners and discussing your goals on the telephone can bring fine results, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) State your aims to right people and also help them gain their goals and you make this a profitable day, p.m. Keep promises meticulously. Handle that business matter well, since you are experienced in such things.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A new approach is necessary to gain good will of an associate at this time. Reach the right solution quickly. Show that you have fine character and you get the assistance you want easily.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Analyzing monetary matters intelligently shows how to handle them quickly and well. Support the aims of your mate, also. Make this a productive day and p.m. Relax at home in the p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to get a co-worker to see your side of things easily. After a good day's work, you can get together with mate and friends and have a delightful time socially. Enjoy amusements you have long neglected.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Whatever you do at home or for kin can pay off handsomely just at this time. Come to a really fine understanding with everyone. Put in those new gadgets at home and make it more efficient, comfortable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make new plans early in a.m. that will improve the entire structure of your life, and then keep appointments. Get ideas across with right people. State your goals simply and clearly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Sitting down with kin and planning a better future together is wise right now. Handle property matters more efficiently. Make those repairs that add to value as well as comfort and appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking very clearly now and can accomplish almost anything provided you use the direct approach with others. Make the new contacts that are necessary. Seek out the data you need, also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 21) Those personal aims you have are also practical, so go after them with vim and vigor. Listen to what trusted advisor has to say. Follow through on whatever sounds logical and down-to-earth.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who has a pioneering streak in the nature, who will listen to what progressive people have to say in order to find the right channel for making money. There is also the ability to put new life into old ventures, businesses, etc. So be sure to send to the most modern schools where progressive subjects are taught and your progeny will then be a real success in life. Sports are necessary because of the extra energy here.

Scott — A Blessing to Webs

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—George C. Scott may not make the movie industry very happy with his history of rejecting potential Oscar awards, but to the television networks, commercial and non-commercial, he is a blessing.

More than any other film star, he has destroyed the long-held motion picture business belief that a successful movie headliner should avoid video, or risk the image or lowering himself.

Scott's approach to television is very simple: is the project worthwhile? If so, he'll do it. And on March 24, Scott, currently nominated for an Academy award for his performance in the movie "Patton," will turn up again on the home screen in a two-hour NBC-TV version of Charlotte Brontë's famous novel "Jane Eyre."

His acting colleagues in the production, filmed in Britain and directed by Delbert Mann, include Susannah York and Jack Hawkins.

An indication of the maverick quality of Scott is the fact that since doing "Patton," for which he has gained international accolades, much of his chief dramatic work has been for television.

He was, for instance, the director of last year's finest American video play, "The Andersonville Trial," which got the "Hollywood Television Theatre" of the non-commercial Public Broadcast Service off to a flying start. The play was repeated this year.

And one successful actor who appeared in the production, Buddy Ebsen of CBS-TV's "Beverly Hillsbillies," admitted he accepted a minor role because he was flattered that Scott wanted him—and because he wanted to watch him direct.

As a result of Scott guiding the non-commercial network had an easier time in attracting a cast that included Richard Basehart, William Shatner and Jack Cassidy.

More recently, of course, Scott also starred in a much-acclaimed adaptation of Arthur Miller's Broadway play, "The Price," on NBC-TV. And he has done numerous other television shows over the years, from Miller's "The Crucible," on CBS-TV, to a Johnny Carson comedy special, to his own excellent series, "East Side, West Side."

An added reason for Scott's involvement with television projects that interest him is his belief that developments such as Cable-TV and video cassettes will loosen the grip of the networks as virtually the sole major suppliers of dramatic works for the mass home audience.

He obviously has his eye not only on the creative freedom this may offer, but also on the potential big financial payoff, including perhaps pay-TV. And there is no doubt he intends to be in a position where he is excellent series, "East Side, West Side," from the top down, and control the rewards.

The "Indianapolis 500" auto race will be seen as an ABC-TV prime time special the same day it is held, May 29, only about five hours after it is over; but Indiana stations will be blacked out... CBS-TV's axing of the Ed Sullivan Show, long expected, indicates the seriousness of the network's attempt to take on a new look; but it is also a regrettable cancellation, perhaps pay-TV. And

'Plaza Suite' Geared To Keep Us Laughing

"Forty Carats," that diamond-bright comedy about a glamorous divorcee of 40 who finds herself romantically pursued by a handsome youth of 22, frolicked across the stage of the Community Theatre here last week—and succeeded in totally delighting its Kingston audience.

And in the wake of "Carats" will come another comedy, nationally acclaimed, as even brighter and funnier. As part of the three-show-subscription 1971 season of the American Theatre League, Inc., "Plaza Suite," starring the husband and wife team of Larry Parks and Betty Garrett, will hold forth at the Community on April 12 with an 8:30 p.m. curtain.

"Suite" was author Neil Simon's seventh straight Broadway hit, and it's considered by many as his funniest. It closed fairly recently on Broadway after a record run.

Trio of Tales

What keeps "Suite" clipping along at a hilarious pace is its three separate stories with all the action taking place in the same suite at The Plaza Hotel in New York. The first tale involves an unusual turn-of-events with a husband and wife celebrating a wedding anniversary. The second story centers on a movie star who invites an old flame to visit him, an invitation that leads to a hilarious romp. The third episode depicts the parents of a bride whose wedding ceremony is interrupted when the bride panics and locks herself in the bathroom.

The original Broadway production ran from early 1968 to late 1970 for a total of 1,097 performances. The Parks-Garrett team has appeared in the comedy for extended runs in Chicago, Philadelphia and Toronto.

Parks is remembered by millions of movie fans for a career that has seen him featured in 28 films, including "The Jolson Story" and "Jolson Sings."

Again." Miss Garrett has 22 movies to her credit and has played opposite such stars as Frank Sinatra, Gene Kelly, Jack Lemmon and Mickey Rooney.

As a team, the duo appeared in the Broadway productions of "Bells Are Ringing" and "Beg, Borrow or Steal." Separately they both have many other Broadway credits. They toured nationally in "Cactus Flower," the play authored by the same team that came up with "Forty Carats." They also toured in a variety act in the British provinces and twice headlined at the famed London Palladium. Both also have innumerable TV stints to their credit.

92 Stopovers

The national touring show which will bring them to Kingston next month is slated to play in a total of 92 cities, including ours, from coast to coast.

The local audience can expect to be hit with an avalanche of hilarity when "Plaza Suite" arrives to set the town laughing. A wonderfully funny and triple-barreled explosion of comedy, it promises a great night to any pleasure-seeking audience.

Better reserve your seats now, if you have not already subscribed for the same seats for the season. Those who have previously taken advantage of the three show-membership tickets need do no more except go and enjoy. Those who have not reserved all season seats but would like to see "Plaza Suite" only should contact Community Theatre manager Marge Thomas by phone or mail soon to secure single or group tickets from several choice locations still remaining.

LARRY PARKS and Betty Garrett are the stars of Neil Simon's Broadway comedy hit, "PLAZA SUITE." They'll bring their roadshow production of the record run play to Kingston's Community Theatre on the evening of April 12.

Tribal Art of Africa In Three-Day Showing

African tribal sculpture, one of the last of the primitive arts, will be on display at Orange County Community College from March 23-25 in the Middletown college's Harriman Gallery.

The art pieces, among them statues, masks, palace posts and panels from the private collection of Sanford Griffith of New York City, will be shown to the public without charge from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. each of the three days.

Twenty-five tribes from West Africa, the Cameroons and the Congo, the three major areas for African art, will be represented in the show sponsored by the OCCC Lyceum Series and the college's social science division.

Yard-High Mask

Included in the sculpture will be an era, a giant Yoruba tribal mask from Nigeria, carved from a single large tree and weighing about 60 pounds. The sculptor has created a dozer figures in the yard-high mask without the help of drawings. The dancer who wears such a mask must himself be huge and powerful to be able to move about with it. Only a few of these jealously-conserved masks have reached the outside world.

"The African artist exaggerates any part of his sculpture to emphasize what he regards as significant," points out Griffith. "Unhampered by conventional vision, he handles forms with fantasy. He combines animal and human motifs. He uses whatever color suits his mood," the collector notes.

The Griffith collection of sculpture comprises some 800 pieces, mostly from West Africa as far south as the Congo. It has been shown in several galleries and three museums, the most recent being the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Outstanding works have been collected from the Baga, Bambara, Senefu, Baoule, Dogon, Bobo, Yoruba and tribes in the Cameroon and Congo.

Griffith has traveled to Africa for many years as a newspaper correspondent, consultant, and collector of museum pieces. For more than ten years, he taught African affairs in the graduate school of City College of New York and at New York University.

Gift for Long Grey Line

A painting of the American bald eagle by noted wildlife artist-naturalist Ray Harm—to be presented to the Corps of Cadets of the United States Military Academy—was unveiled recently in Louisville, Ky.

Harm previewed the original painting with the Academy Superintendent, Major General William A. Knowlton, and the top-ranking cadet, First Captain Thomas Pyrz, Louie B. Nunn, Kentucky governor, was among other dignitaries at the unveiling.

The painting will be presented to the Corps of Cadets April 6 at West Point.

Ecological Emphasis

Harm painted the American bald eagle at this time to emphasize the fact that it is among several species endangered in the ecological crises.

"This American Eagle was painted as a gift for West Point, whose Long Grey Line of young men has always been unswervingly dedicated to Duty, Honor, Country," Harm said.

"It was also painted as my personal rededication to our National Emblem and everything for which it stands. In it, I have attempted to bring forth the power, grace and majestic dignity of this magnificent bird.

"It is my hope that those who see it will resolve that our American eagle must remain a living symbol, not a victim of apathy and uncaring neglect."

The Harm eagle painting is being reproduced by the Frame House Gallery of Louisville as part of a special "West Point Edition" of fine color lithographs of "The American Eagle."

1,000 Signed Prints

One thousand of these 24"x32" prints will be signed by artist Harm and will have a distinctive West Point designation. The title line will be "The American Eagle."

The 1,000 prints designated "West Point Edition" are available only to cadets and their families, civilian personnel closely associated with the Academy, and military personnel. The Frame House Gallery has announced it plans to donate proceeds of the sale of these prints to the Academy to further fine arts activities.

Harm will present the original painting to the Academy in a special ceremony April 6. It will be displayed, along with a complete collection of Harm's works, April 6-20 in the USMA Library. Prints will be available at that time.

Others taking part in the unveiling ceremonies were Major General Richard L. Irby, commanding general, U.S. Armed Center, Ft. Knox, Ky.; retired Brigadier General Charles Blakely, West Point Class of 1904; and retired Colonel Frederick B. Griffith Jr., Class of 1902.

Gen. Blakely and Col. Griffith, both 90 years old, are members of the West Point Society of Kentucky, under whose auspices the unveiling was held.

THIS PAINTING of the American bald eagle by noted wildlife artist-naturalist Ray Harm will find a permanent home at the U. S. Military Academy in West Point, following special presentation ceremonies on April 6.

Jerry Lewis Cinemas for Ulster and Dutchess

JERRY LEWIS, veteran nightclub, film and TV comedian, has added another facet to his career. Heading up a highly successful mini-cinema operation, he's building a chain of movie houses across the U. S.; plans to develop theatres in Ulster, Dutchess and other Mid-Hudson area counties.

They have been the butt of joke after joke — those Jerry Lewis Cinemas going up across the country — but they are proving financially successful. And, within a short time, more than a few of these moviehouses will be opening for business in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Comedian Alan King once said that Lewis went into the movie theatre business so he'd have a place to show his own movies. Opined King: "When Jerry's pictures are playing, nobody is seated after the first 10 minutes — everybody is heading for the parking lot."

Not true and, to prove it, the first of 21 Jerry Lewis Cinemas scheduled for the Tri-State Area has started construction in East Monticello. Located in the Monticello East Plaza Shopping Center on Old Route 17, the twin, 350-seat automated theatres will be housed in a free-standing building now being specially built to specifications for the mini-cinemas.

A First for Area.

The twin theatres are the first in this area for Network Cinema Corporation, a New York-based company formed by the world-famous comedian to develop the theatre chain. The firm will be developing Jerry Lewis Cinemas in Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, and Sullivan counties. This may be done by issuing licenses to individual exhibitors; on a joint-venture basis; or by developing all theatres through the firm.

Writer-movie critic-and-part-time movie star Rex Reed has joked that Lewis has thousands of his theatres around the country and, now, "when he makes a turkey, he has a place to stuff them." But, jokes aside, the Jerry Lewis Cinema concept has, within the last year and a half, become the most successful mini-cinema operation in the U.S. With 10 theatres in operation and another 40 under construction, by spring 50 of the automated theatres will be serving the public, with construction announcements forthcoming steadily.

When Milton Berle took a jab at the Lewis enterprise, he put it this way: "Jerry has his own theatres now. I don't want to say his last picture died but the theatres are selling black popcorn."

They also sell other things. The automated mini-cinemas were designed to meet the growing demand for convenient, modern theatres which can be constructed in suburban population centers or small towns at low cost. The theatres, which range in size from 100 to 350 seats, can be set up in nearly any existing space and, because of their automated equipment, can be operated by as few as two people.

Small Town Bonanza

Every phase of the operation — lights, curtain, projection, sound — is automatically coordinated and programmed by a widely publicized automation system. Because of this, overhead and operating costs are low and enable a mini-theatre to be operated in many small towns that have been without a motion picture theatre.

Charlie Callas was only joking when he said, "The French have hailed Jerry as a genius. The French, you may remember, burned Joan of Arc."

But Lewis isn't kidding about his project in this area. At present, his area director, Peter J. Burns, is negotiating for sites in Ulster and adjoining counties and additional construction announcements will be coming through in the near future. (T.G.)

Del Howard — Always Brightest Just Before Dawn

By LEI

Night people in the Hudson Valley who depend on all-night radio for entertainment, relaxation, or companionship have been finding more of all three since Kingston's WKNY began its Dawn Patrol all-night programming. The program features interesting interviews, news, and music, skillfully combined by a new voice in Hudson Valley radio.

The voice belongs to 21-year old Del Howard, and his unique approach to broadcasting's graveyard shift is creating an epidemic of voluntary insomnia. After many years, after-midnight radio is doing more than the moon to brighten the night.

It is no accident that Del reminds some of his listeners of the great radio personalities of the last decade, for he enjoys listening to radio as well as broadcasting over it. Among the disk jockies he enjoys are Steve Post and Lanny Josephson on WBAI in New York, Joey Reynolds (whom he grew up listening to), Jonathan Schwartz of WVFV-FM, and, more locally, Tom Savage of WHVW. One of these days, they could be mentioning Del Howard among their favorites. He's shown surprising maturity in developing his own original style based on his observations of the freshest approaches in radio — directions usually lost to those who are not FM radio addicts.

Announcer at 12

The maturity of Del's approach to broadcasting is not surprising after one learns he announced his first show nine years ago. How that happened, when he was only twelve, is another story!

Del Howard was born in Brooklyn in 1949, the oldest child in a family that consisted of "a mother, a father, two younger sisters, a dog and a cat." Until he came to Kingston this winter, his physical world had been bounded by the areas of East Flatbush, Far Rockaway, and Canarsie. His mental horizons stretched from coast to coast, however. His parents were avid radio fans, and encouraged Del's early interest in broadcasting. At an age when most boys are souping up hot rods, Del was tinkering with his old Philco radio, trying to improve reception from far-distant stations.

When he was 12 years old, Del entered a "guest disk jockey" contest on WWRL, New York City's most popular black radio station. Del won, and in the spring of 1962, he sat down behind the microphone for the first time and — only 12 — announced a three-hour show. He grins as he recalls the result—

"They invited me back."

Del's parents, particularly his father, shared his interest in radio, and encouraged him to follow up on his fascination with the subject. He became a familiar visitor to radio stations, talking to deejays and learning by observation.

A Rapid Rise

In 1966, Del entered Brooklyn College, majoring in history, a subject he finds intensely interesting. His liberal arts course included acting and journalism. Two years later, Brooklyn College students petitioned for a college radio station. They were successful, and the result was WBCR-FM. It started as little more than a transmitter and a microphone in a corner, but it proved so popular it expanded rapidly in both size and scope.

Del Howard was the station's first news director, and he expanded with it. He was soon announcer of his own shows; advanced to assistant program director. By 1970 he had been promoted to program director of the station. He changed the format from Top-40 to progressive rock, and news of the station spread far beyond the college community.

Last September, faced with graduation, Del utilized Election Recess to do some serious job hunting. Armed with a copy of "Broadcast" magazine, a stack of demonstration tapes, and a full tank of gas, he drove upstate from Brooklyn, stopping at radio stations along the way to make his pitch for a job.

He received a sympathetic hearing at WKNY here, where program director John Betaudier took time from his lunch hour to listen to Del's tapes and hear his spiel. Del admits that for the next three months he gave director Betaudier very little peace. His persistence paid off. He graduated from Brooklyn College on Jan. 13. Two hours later, he got the news—he had been employed by WKNY. Diploma in pocket, Del started packing his car. A week later, he was settled in his new apartment in Kingston, and last Jan. 21, he began his first Dawn Patrol.

One reason Del's show is so enjoyable is that his voice and manner radiate his satisfaction with what he's doing. He has found radio to be a career where work and pleasure are identical. He feels that radio announcing involves more than those stacks of records—should include intellectual involvement on his part, and (he hopes) on the part of his listeners. "I hope people talk back to the radio while I'm on the air," he says. In fact, they needn't just talk to the radio—Del Howard is one disk jockey who enjoys getting phone calls from his listeners.

Genuine but Barbed

Those who do call will find that his friendly radio personality is genuine. However, it can resemble a confrontation with a friendly hedgehog. Del's wit is barbed, and he irreverently pokes fun at everything within earshot—himself included.

Del relishes living and working in what he regards as "the country." A short drive out of Kingston, he finds, provides the fresh air and rural peace that was lacking in Brooklyn. He has found the natives of our area "very friendly," and he credits the people he's met so far with making his acclimatization to life out of Brooklyn so pleasant.

"To reduce experiential delight to visual essence, to capture this preciousness of nature and media, to seek the inward truths of self and express these brate life. . . . this is my in-visual evocations which cele- tent." So comments Kenneth Green, who will be honored with a retrospective exhibition opening at the College Art Gallery at New Paltz this Sunday, March 21.

Green has been on the Art Faculty of New Paltz since 1957. He received both a BA and BS at Kansas State Teachers College in 1951 and 1952. In 1957 he received his MA at the State University of Iowa.

Artist Green has participated in all major national ceramic shows, including the Syracuse, Wichita and Miami Nationals. His works are represented in many collections throughout the nation. Among these are the Museum of Decorative Arts, Wichita, Kansas; Lowe Art Center and Museum, Miami, Florida; Albany Institute of History and Art, New York; Cooper Union Museum, New York, New York; and numerous private collections.

Kenneth Green is currently a

New York representative of the Northeastern region of the American Craftsmen's Council, and had previously served on the Board of Directors of the York State Craftsmen.

This exhibition will cover many periods from the artist's career. Included will be his most current work in porcelain and stoneware. The work in porcelain was supported by a University Research fellowship in the summer of 1970.

A reception for the artist will open the exhibit on Sunday, March 21, from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Thereafter the exhibit will be on view in the South Gallery of the College Art Gallery until April 7, during regular gallery hours. (Mon.-Fri. 9-5; Thurs. 9-9; Sun. 2-5).

'Ashokan Paintings' Directly From Nature

Ashokan Paintings, an exhibition of student landscapes, will open at the College Art Gallery of State University College, New Paltz, on Tuesday, March 23.

During July of 1970, the college's Art Department offered for the first time a fully-accredited intensive landscape painting class at the school's picturesque Ashokan Campus. The program was unique in that students and faculty staff were required to live and work together five days a week totally involved with painting. With the exception of two field trips, they painted directly from nature during the day, and occasionally developed some of their work indoors in the evening. Usually the evenings were devoted to formal and informal discussions as well as frequent critiques. One week was spent drawing and painting from the model outdoors.

The upcoming exhibition will consist of two paintings from each student. Students who participated in the program were Walter Ahearn, Madge Clauss, Carolyn Gardner, Nancy Gensel, Tor Gudmundsen, Heather Lockhart, Darroll Midgett, Heidi McElroy, David Negrin, Elaine Reilly, Carleen Schneider and Stanley Schulman. George Wexler, professor of art at New Paltz, directed the program and can be contacted for information concerning future Summer Art Workshops.

The exhibit will be on view in the North Gallery on campus until April 6. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. and Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m.

JAMES OTIS plays Sir Andrew Aguecheek in the National Players production of Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night," to be presented by Mount Saint Mary College Cultural Centre, Newburgh, Saturday, March 27, 8:15 p. m., in the College Theatre.

Twelfth Night on Tour

The Mount Saint Mary College Cultural Centre will present the Shakespearean comedy, "Twelfth Night," at 8:15 p.m., Saturday, March 27 in the College Theatre.

The play will be produced by National Players, the oldest international touring repertory company. In its 22 year history, National Players has offered over 3,000 performances of brilliant and imaginative productions of classical and modern masterworks of the stage, embracing works of the greatest of the world's playwrights.

Cassettes Arrive

The American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., and Associated Television Corporation, Ltd., have formed a company to produce and distribute video cassette programming covering educational, industrial and specialized home entertainment.

The company has played throughout the United States, in Canada, and in nine overseas tours. It has also appeared off-Broadway, on network television, and by special invitation to the White House. Last season, Cultural Centre featured the National Players in the production of Shakespeare's "King Lear."

"Twelfth Night" embodies all the elements of a good Elizabethan comedy — poetry, mistaken identity and romantic conspiracy. Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for students and may be obtained by calling or writing Mount Saint Mary Cultural Centre, Newburgh, N. Y.

GLORIA JEAN CLARK will appear as organist when the cantata "The Cross of Christ" is sung here at a special Lenten service on Sunday, March 28.

Gloria Jean Clark will appear as organist when the moving and masterful cantata "The Cross of Christ" is sung by the Massed Choir of Kingston Area Council of Churches during a special Union Lenten service at Fair Street Reformed Church, Sunday evening, March 28.

The musical score, composed by Donald Romme, has a demanding accompaniment which requires exceptionally skilled instrumentalists.

Gloria Jean, newly appointed organist at Fair Street Church, has a rich background in religious music. At the age of BETTY LINDSAY, soprano, will contribute to the moving Easter season cantata when the Massed Choir presents it here in an inspiring production.

PERCY GAZLAY will conduct the Massed Choir of Kingston Area Council of Churches in the masterful presentation planned at Fair Street Church.

Moving Cantata For Easter Festival Time

eight, she studied with James Sweeney of Kingston, and later began the serious study of church organ with Raymond C. Corey. She became organist for the Reformed Church of the Comforter at the age of 14.

After graduation from high school, she continued her studies at Julliard School of Music where she majored in Organ and Church Music, and later worked on the famous West Point organ. She has had the honor of working with two of the most distinguished recitalist musicians, Dr. E. Tidmarsh and E. Power Biggs, both noted concert organists. A member of the American Guild of Organists, Gloria Jean has served numerous churches: Reformed Church of the Comforter, Old Dutch Church of Kingston, Cohoes Presbyterian Church, as well as organist and director of Port Ewen Reformed Church.

The Lenten service program should be well attended, for it will provide everyone the opportunity of listening to one of the loveliest cantatas of the Easter Season. No one will want to miss this inspiring musical production.

Burst of Copland Recordings

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Aaron Copland had a merry round of conducting orchestras and otherwise appearing before audiences last year, all in accepting felicitations for his 70th birthday. One result is a burst of Copland recordings from Columbia in which the eminent composer performed.

He was the pianist in performances of his piano quartet, his sextet for clarinet, piano and string quartet, and his trio for violin, cello and piano. His collaborator was the Juilliard String Quartet augmented by a clarinetist in one instance, diminished in the other (30376).

Also there is a recording (though a reissue) of his settings of 12 poems of Emily Dickinson as sung by Adele Addison with his piano accompaniments and of three of his choruses as performed by the New England Conservatory Chorus with him conducting (30375).

The 'Other' Copland

These are representative works of the "other" Copland with which the many admirers of his facetiously light and conventional works such as "El Salon Mexico" are not familiar—by choice, in many instances. They are bare-boned, largely if not entirely atonal.

Out of professional pride if for no other reason Copland maintains a mastery of all compositional techniques. He deliberately went back and forth between the conventional and the unconventional, achieving in each what he set out to achieve, in his own appraisals.

The fans of the 12-tone scale and tonality in general cherish him for these works which, few will deny, have technical integrity and intellectual if not always emotional appeal, while being disdainful of his pieces for what they call "the popular taste."

The fans of these pieces will disdain the pieces of the austere atonal Copland, and so it is tit for tat. They have their goodies in the new recordings.

Ballet Scores

One has the composer conducting his ballet scores, "Rodeo" and "Billy the Kid" (30114). Another is a first recording of some of his film music, "Music for a Great City," plus his "Statements" (30374). For both, the orchestra was the London Symphony. Columbia has also issued at a reduced price a two-record set of Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic playing "Appalachian Spring," "Billy the Kid," "El Salon Mexico" and "Rodeo" (30071).

Whether coming from a record or a tape, Sviatoslav Richter's piano playing is among the most impressive now available. The reviewer was greatly impressed by the tape of his playing of Brahms' 2nd concerto with the Orchestre de Paris with Lorin Maazel conducting (Angel - Ampex 36728).

McMahon as Copycat

Johnny Carson once did a one-hour special from Florida's watery playground, Cypress Gardens, so why shouldn't his "Tonight" program sidekick, Ed McMahon, do the same? He will. Ed will mingle with the water skiers, the daredevil boat drivers, the aquatic clowns and other stunts on March 14.

A Woodstock Artist On Turtles & Pets

Some of the cleverest illustrations for children's books in recent months have come from the Woodstock studio of artist Tom Eaton. Tempo can attest to the fact that the eye-catching and finely detailed drawings by Eaton appeal to elementary school youngsters. We've tested them out on the kids along our block; watched them pore over the illustrations and read through the accompanying text in fascination.

Reading is what the books illustrated by Eaton is all about, with ample helpings of Ricciuti, it stresses why wild creatures need their natural habitat, in the same manner that "Green Turtle" emphasizes the need for conservation of a dwindling species.

All of these Harper books are charming and informative; are low-priced enough to make meaningful gifts for youngsters just learning to read or those who have been reading for several years. Eaton has illustrated them in three colors for additional appeal.

ELLIOTT GOULD consoles his pregnant wife, Brenda Vaccaro, while enroute to the hospital in "I Love My Wife," the satirical comedy that has been held over for a second week at the Orpheum in Saugerties.

MICHAEL J. POLLARD is "Little Fauss" in "Little Fauss and Big Halsy," also starring Robert Redford. The film, in Panavision and color, is now showing at Woodstock Tinker Street Cinema.

ROD STEIGER, seen here in his Academy Award winning role as a tough sheriff in "In the Heat of the Night," is back in the area in a rerun of that film. The entertaining and acclaimed movie is now playing at the New Paltz Cinema.

DUSTIN HOFFMAN doesn't wear this cavalry hat in "Midnight Cowboy," but he does turn in one of the major performances of his career as Ratso in that film. It's back for a rerun on the current double bill at New Paltz Cinema.

MOVIES

The Night Visitor

Rather weird and grotesque is "The Night Visitor," the crime movie that tries hard to be arty. Now playing at Kingston's Community, it's not quite art—and the blame for this must be placed at the feet of producer Mel Ferrer and director Laslo Benedek, who gave us more artistic offerings in "The Wild One" and "Namu, the Killer Whale," a highly commendable documentary.

Dedicated movie buffs, however, will find enough chills and thrills in "Visitor" to keep them titillated. Some of the most respectable names in films are involved in the movie, including Max von Sydow, Trevor Howard, Liv Ullman, Per Oscarsson, and composer Henry Mancini.

Basically, however, von Sydow is saddled with the role of a male Lizzie Borden with slightly different overtones. The plot becomes a little too incoherent at times but, basically, it has to do with the killing of a handyman by Per and Liv. Not wanting to take the rap themselves, they frame Liv's brother, played by von Sydow, for the murder—and off he goes to a prison cell.

The Perfect Crime

Non-criminal though he may have been, he comes up with the perfect crime. Wily and cautious, he finds a way to escape from his cell—but only long enough to slip out and hack up several people. Returning undetected to his confinement, he is never suspected, of course, by inspector Trevor Howard, who's trying to solve all those gory crimes in the neighborhood.

Max, who took the rap originally for Per, now frames Per for the murders. Does Trevor prove as wily in suspecting him as he proved wily in putting the finger on Per? You'll have to go and see for yourself. It's just not cricket for a reviewer to leak the ending of a suspense thriller.

There Was A Crooked Man

Now showing at the Rosendale Theatre, this film is a sometimes funny vehicle with a big-name cast.

A western with a twist, it features Henry Fonda as a good guy(?) and Kirk Douglas as a bad guy. Douglas is a rapacious but engaging convict, who has secreted away scuds of holdup money. The plot revolves around his cutting in various and sundry dupes and dopes on the loot in exchange for helping him escape from a dreary desert prison to recover it.

Fonda's the warden and his personality is not quite what it seems. A lot of people get gunned down in this one—but that's to be expected. The script was written by the men who gave us "Bonnie and Clyde." There are some clever twists, however, and they add luster to what is normally a tired western format.

An excellent supporting cast includes Warren Oates, who gives a marvelous characterization as an ugly sort of fellow. Hume Cronyn and John Randolph excel as an aging homosexual couple, and Burgess Meredith has a frolic as a prisoner growing pot in his cell. And one of the biggest laughs in the movie comes when a bearded Fonda attempts to hand-roll his cigarettes and does it so badly it's funny. "Crooked Man" does have a fair share of professionalism and literacy; proves there is dishonor among good guys as well as crooks. Good entertainment for a late March night.

Perfect Friday

A trio of unlikely crooks pull off a beautiful bank robbery without one single killing—or even an argument among themselves—in this witty and wonderful film on screen at Red Hook's Lyceum. And they prove themselves crooked to the end in a fun thriller that's all suspense story.

Surprisingly, its three stars have never been considered comedy type actors. But surprise us, they do, with their comedic flair. The usually humorous (Continued on Page 30)

Dual Shows for Ente

Two concurrent one-man shows at separate galleries are presently featuring the work of Lily Ente, one of Woodstock's foremost sculptors. Now on exhibit through April 6 at both the galleries of Poughkeepsie's Marist College and Fordham University's Lincoln Center Campus in New York City are woodcuts by Miss Ente.

While best-known for working exclusively in marble, she is no newcomer to the graphic arts medium, and many Ulsterites will remember her dramatic and powerful prints in a showing at Woodstock's Polari Gallery last summer.

Prints displayed in her current shows illustrated another facet of this artist's sculptural conceptions. Like her sculp-

Has Exhibited Widely

Lily Ente's work has been widely exhibited in the U. S. and abroad in such prestigious showplaces as New York's Riverside Museum and Stable Gallery, Brooklyn Museum, Claude Bernard Gallerie of Paris, and London's Great Burlington Gallery, among others. She is represented in the collections of various museums such as the Phoenix Art, Riverside, Norfolk, Israel's Safad and the Massachusetts at Amherst, as well as in the Hirschorn and other private collections.

Acclaimed as one of our first ranking artists and heralded as an important innovator, her current shows are proving to be rewarding experiences for viewers.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

If you were watching "To Tell the Truth" one recent weekday night, you'd have seen Shiro Aoki, proprietor of Central Valley's Ga-Sho of Japan Restaurant, without doubt one of most unusual dining places between here and The Orient.

It's a 15th century art treasure, first of type ever assembled in U.S. Original building—an authentic Samurai warrior hideout—was dismantled in mountains of Japan and shipped to Central Valley for reconstruction. Reassembled here, timber by timber in original 400-year-old manner, entire process took more than a year to accomplish.

Interior was designed by Yasubel Ito, Japan's foremost traditional designer; its landscape by Toyoshi Suzuki, one of Japan's best-known landscape architects. All renovation and restoration work completed by Japanese craftsmen without nails or bolts... wood joined in tongue 'n groove fashion. No detailed blueprints were used in reconstruction; only keen memory of seventh generation carpenter. One main structural beam weighs three tons.

Accommodating 160, restaurant specializes in Teppanyaki-style cooking, a unique method where food is cooked in front of diners on gas-heated grills imbedded in center of each tabletop. Each Ga-Sho table seats up to eight, family style, around three-sides of table. Chef exhibits special flare for showmanship, adding to fanfare of dining in uncommon setting known as "Green Acres" (no resemblance to that bearing same name on TV.)

Menu offers: Appetizer, Hibachi shrimp; Soup, onion au gratin a la Japanese; Salad; Entree, Minute Steak including rice, green tea, Hibachi vegetable; Dessert, ice cream, sherbet, melon, mandarin orange.

Dinners: Hibachi Chicken with vegetables, $5.25; Sukiyaki Steak with vegetables, $6.25; Filet Mignon, $7; includes dessert, appetizer, soup, salad. Ga-Sho Special for $10 offers soup, Hibachi shrimp, salad, special steak, Hibachi vegetables, dessert. Lunch is served Monday to Friday, noon to 3 p.m.; dinner 5:30 to 11; Saturday and Sunday, noon to 11 p.m.

Translated literally Ga-Sho is Japanese for "praying hands," and refers to soaring, dominant roof, the irregular triangular motif symbolizing Heaven, Earth, Man.

Brothers Shiro and Hiro who run business are sons of Yunosuke, proprietor of nine restaurants in Japan. To complete old world picture, a series of gardens, ponds, bridges, waterwheels are under construction, along with a Tea House in garden for luncheon, and gift shoppe featuring Oriental dolls and Masuko pottery, traditional art dating back 2,000 years. Waitresses in medieval native garb add color and atmosphere.

Since its opening Jan. 10, patrons have been experiencing Japanese philosophy on dining: "Ear is soothed, eye beguiled, mind delighted, palate tantalized—appetite slowly appeased." That the restaurant is a conversation piece is obvious. Helen and Joe Mahar, the Paul Merciers, Viv and Mark Cornwell, Ed and Bernice Radel, the Emilio Ambroses are just a few Kingstonsians who've either been there or plan to go soon.

May we make two suggestions: 1) Take Thruway to Hariman exit 16; make right turn on Route 32 for two miles; look for Ga-Sho of Japan sign on left side of road; 2) before leaving for Ga-Sho, "where East meets West," practice at home with your chopsticks! AND... Happy Dining.

A Day-Long Poetry Workshop

Elementary and secondary English teachers of the 57 school districts in the Mid-Hudson School Study Council will sponsor a Poetry Workshop at New Paltz State College on Saturday, March 27.

Workshop leader for the morning session will be poet Ron Padgett, whose published works include Great Balls of Fire, Bean Spasms, and a translation of Apollinaire's The Poet Assassinated. Padgett will discuss and demonstrate techniques used by himself and writer Kenneth Koch in getting elementary and secondary students to write poetry. He will also screen and discuss a film based on Koch's book, Wishes, Lies, and Dreams. Featured at the afternoon session beginning at 12:30 p.m. will be a poetry reading by young student poets of the Mid-Hudson schools. There will also be an opportunity to view several USA: Poetry films—readings and discussions with Anne Sexton, Brother Antoninus, Michael McClure, and Theodore Roethke.

The program has been arranged by Dennis J. Hannan, chairman of the Mid-Hudson language arts committee, and Mrs. Bette Perlmutter, head of the English department in the Arlington junior and senior high schools. Both welcome all area residents to attend either or both workshop sessions, which will begin at 9:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. The program will take place in the Lecture Center on the New Paltz campus.

Phoenicia Exhibit Heralds Spring

The Phoenicia Library is currently presenting an art show in keeping with the arrival of spring.

Artist Edward Krauss of Lanesville is exhibiting a diverse group of watercolors, oils and drawings. Among the bright and interesting watercolors are scenes of area mountains and views, along with the lovely old buildings one encounters in traveling over local and beautiful country roads. The oils, done with perception and grace, include not only landscapes and still life, but ventures into the abstract.

The Art Committee of the library recommends this show as an unusual collection of work that should be of particular value and enjoyment to the public. The Phoenicia show continues until April 9.

Artist Krauss is a graduate of Pratt Institute and has attended the Art Students League. He has earned his livelihood as a machinist. Now retired and living in Lanesville, he is devoting more time to his art endeavors in various media.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

IRISH EYES WERE SMILIN'

I'm not sure exactly what "Begorra" means, but from the sound of it, we had it here Tuesday, at Roberto's "St. Patrick's Eve Party" . . . from the first peal of the dinner bell to the last wee-hour "Top Av Th 'Mahinlin' to Ye!" And I'm still getting congratulatory phone calls, telling me how much the evening was enjoyed. I'm glad—because I enjoyed it, too; and in answer to many queries, we're already planning next year's shindig.

And it really was a party—because so many people came in groups. For instance, Bob Corcoran, in work-a-day world the principal of The Commander Meagher School (I still remember it as P.S. 5) engineered a party of 34 celebrants . . . members of the school staff and friends—with their wives.

Wilbur Mathews helped his wife Vi host a party that included her fellow (is that O.K., Women's Lib?) Chief Operators at the New York Telephone Co.: Louise Gaffney, Vivian Lucas, Marilyn Lunn, Gloria Johnson and Carol Strini . . . as well as Sargeant and Mrs. Ray Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Shute, and Karen and Frank Fatum, who is Wilbur's partner in the Fatum Taxi and Ambulance Service. The girls all agreed that Vi had called the right number!

Probably the most unusual party was the "Kingston Kollens"—a distaff group that included Madeline "Dee" Cole, Marie Gorsline, Evelyn Hunter, Florence Klein, (wife of our Democratic Chairman) and Kaye Quick, wife of Alderman of Kingston's 6th Ward. Marie jolted the assemblage with her green hair (yes, I said green) for the occasion! "Dee's" hubby, Charley Cole, was at the party, but stayed in the lounge, in fact, he hustled to his car and fetched his guitar, and joined with Mark Garrison to keep the visitors to the Cocktail Lounge entertained while Howard Rust was making the dancers happy in the Dining Room. Marie's comment was pertinent:

"Everything was superb; the Irish, Italian, Jewish and Polish were all Irish tonight."

That's just what I felt when I considered the variety of antecedents represented by our friends that night. To paraphrase George Orwell with Richard Nixon (and that should be as far out as I can think) "On St. Patrick's Day, everybody is Irish—only some are more Irish than others."

Which I think is fitting, seeing as how Ireland's St. Patrick wasn't an Irishman, anyway!

Of course—so many "regulars" were here—the Dempseys, the Griggs, the Perrys and the Shannons—I wish I had space to list all of them. And here's the topper—they were all back again Saturday night, for their accustomed enjoyment of the "Roberto's Ring-A-Ding Repertory" performance.

I forgot to ask one of my friends for the Gaelic way to say "Thank You," but whatever it is, that's what I'm saying.

Now—clear the track for Easter Sunday!

NOW THAT PADDY'S DAY

has been so memorably celebrated and laid away in the mothballs of our memories until next year, I'd like to put out a little blarney of my own . . . especially since I've still been slowed up by that siege of Flu, and haven't been able to keep up with the Table-Hopping set at Roberto's the past few weeks.

I must report a criticism . . . not of our food, but of our signs. Seems that Maureen Mayo, Virginia Miglino, Carrie Ross, Jean Stawicki, Mary Ellen Watkins and Eunice S. White, all of the Kingston's Benedictine Hospital Business Office Staff, tendered a Good Luck and Farewell Party for Fran Lillenthal. Here with Mrs. White's comment: "Missed the turn, went half way to Poughkeepsie; please have better sign made. Drinks and food superb . . . can't enjoy it if we can't find it." I promise to have a better sign made, and a bigger one, too, if I can find a place to put it  Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kingston, of Greenwich, Conn. tendered a gala Birthday Party for "Pop" Ferante, marking that grand man's 75th Birthday; and well marked it was, too, with some thirty friends and relatives on hand to do "Pop" honor.  Others among those pleasant at Roberto's recently would include Attorney Joseph Saccoman and his Superior Judge (Mrs. S. . . who else?) . . . Mr. and Mrs. Dom Perry . . . The Strattons, with their Daughter and Son-in-Law (gotta remember to get their names!) . . . George and Martha, of the Park Diner, with Sister and Brother-in-Law from Switzerland . . . the Ed Shannons with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cole and of course, all the "regulars" of the famed Port Ewen Shakespeare and Sing-Along Society, including newcomers with terrific voices: Mr. Tim Law, and Charles Cole giving out with some fondly-remembered oldies. I'll get around to all the familiar faces (and names) next week. Meantime, let me remind you that when there's any question about the right place to take someone for Luncheon, on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday, seek no further: Lay your bets on the masterful Midday Meals at Roberto's . . . from a mere $1.75.

THE DAILY FREEMAN, MARCH 20, 1971-30

morless Stanley Baker is superlative; the usually exotic Ursula Andress is fine; and the usually dramatic David Warner is absolutely superb.

The farce is rampant in "Perfect Friday" as the plot spins around the greed of a very proper bank underling (Baker), who plots to pull off the perfect bank robbery—and does. A round $1 million in cash is involved, along with a peer and his lady to do the dirty work.

Baker believes there's no such thing as an honest man and, as a plotter supreme, he certainly

Del Howard, Always Brightest

At the moment, Del seems to have only one problem — and that's a relatively minor one. The Dawn Patroller likes to munch on doughnuts and coffee during his all-night show. But he'd also like to lose 15 pounds. His listeners, however, supply him with so many edibles, he's seriously thinking of lengthening his name to Delicatessen Howard. . . .

'Electra' for TV?

Here's an idea to help bolster the weak dramatic area of the television networks. On the agenda of the American Shakespeare Festival Theater in Stratford, Conn., this summer is what may be a once-in-a-generation revival of Eugene O'Neill's marathon play, "Mourning Becomes Electra," considered by many to be his finest work. Record a performance on tape, broadcast it next season, probably in two parts on successive nights. It's such a logical and comparatively inexpensive thing to do. Which is why television probably won't do it.

Bennett Special

Singer Tony Bennett's recent concert with the London Philharmonic Orchestra in the British capital was filmed and will be broadcast as a video special, first in Britain, then in the United States and elsewhere.

To Direct 'Brontes'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Richard Fleischer, who directed "Tora! Tora! Tora!," will direct "The Brontes," a life story of the famous writing sisters.

proves it—at least this time around. As the lord who is used in the meticulous plotting, Warner plays his role of a man interested only in his appearance to the hilt. Miss Andress as his lovely Swiss lady is not the undressed female of "Dr. No" and other pictures, but a gal who sees money as an asset and allows herself to be involved in the caper. It's all a very grand lark for the audience indeed!

Other Choices

(previously reviewed in Tempo)

I LOVE MY WIFE. Held over for a second week at the Orpheum in Saugerties, this Elliott Gould film is the supposedly hip study of the comic agonies of an unhappily married man of today. He's confused about love, sex and marriage—and so were we after watching the involved and insane plot.

LITTLE FAUSS AND BIG HALSY. Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema is now showing this well-done and subtly underplayed film of the life styles of motorcycle racers. Top-notch performances by Robert Redford and Michael J. Pollard, and enough professional racing action to keep you on the edge of your seat.

JOE. Holding forth at Kingston's Mayfair is "Joe," a whale of a movie with a whopping social message. Newcomer Peter Boyle stars as a bigoted hardhat who takes out his frustrations on a communal household of flower children.

MIDNIGHT COWBOY and IN THE HEAT OF THE NIGHT. Lots of Oscars racked up between these two brilliant films. "Cowboy" has last year's best movie of the year; stars Dustin Hoffman as a marvelous New York City street urchin type, and Jon Voight in a powerful performance as a male hustler supreme. "Heat of the Night" is one of the best detective mysteries to come along in years; pits black, big-city detective Sidney Poitier against wily, small-town sheriff Rod Steiger. Both are on the current double bill at New Paltz Cinema. (By TOBIE GEERT-SEMA)
